been clamoring for it to do involving the public more in its decisions hiring more wildlife biologists recreation specialists sociologists planners and individuals with people skills and fur thermore taking a more comprehensive and long term view in planning the future of the national forests The result has been significant in some ways monumental changes in the agency and its land manage ment practices There are provisions for public input in almost all as pects of national forest management today The profeSSional disciplines represented throughout the agency s ranks are markedly more diverse than they have ever been Moreover no stone is left untumed in the agency s current forest planning effort undoubtedly the most compre hensive interdisciplinary planning effort ever undertaken by a resource agency in the United States Regardless of the dramatic change that has occurred in the U S Forest Service since the early 1970s the agency is still plagued by con flicts arising from dissatisfaction th how it is doing business      *Address of ...
