

Chapter 18 Nuclear Chemistry

Section 10.4 Fission and Fusion(pages 308–318)

This section discusses nuclear fission and the conversion of mass into energy. It also describes the nuclear processes of fusion and fission.

Reading Strategy (page 308)

Comparing and Contrasting As you read, contrast fission and fusion in the Venn diagram below by listing the ways they differ. For more information on this Reading Strategy, see the Reading and Study Skills in the Skills and Reference Handbook at the end of your textbook.

Nuclear Forces (pages 308–309)

- Describe the strong nuclear force. The strong nuclear force is the attractive force that binds protons and neutrons together in the nucleus.
- Is the following sentence true or false? Over very short distances, the strong nuclear force is much greater than the electric forces among protons. True
- Electric forces in atomic nuclei depend on the number of protons.
- Is the following sentence true or false? The strong nuclear force on a proton or neutron is much greater in a large nucleus than in a small nucleus. False
- All nuclei with 83 or more protons are radioactive.

Fission (pages 309–310)

- Describe fission. Fission is the splitting of an atomic nucleus into two smaller parts.
- Fission can produce very large amounts of energy from very small amounts of mass.

Life and Motion of Socio-Economic Units Andrew Frank, Jonathan Raper, J. P. Cheylan, 2003-09-02 One of the ongoing problems researchers in geography and GIS have is studying data that is inherently spatial over a long period of time One of the main hurdles they have to overcome is the study of groups of people classified by their socio economic status one of the main means for governments companies and research organisations to group together segments of the population The amount of data collected by governments business and research organisations has increased markedly in recent years Geographic Information Systems have been more widely used than ever before for the storage and analysis of this information Most GIS can handle this information spatially rather than temporally and have difficulty with the management of socio economic time series which relate to spatial units Accordingly this book covers the issues ranging from the formal model to differentiate aspects of spatio temporal data through philosophical and fundamental reconsideration of time and space to the development of practical solutions to the problem This book draws together an interdisciplinary group of scientists in the field of geography computing surveying and philosophy It presents the definitive sourcebook on temporal GIS as applied to socio economic units
