The Lord's Prayer in the Ghanaian Context Michael Wandusim, 2021-10-25 This study explores the reception history of the Lord's Prayer in the Ghanaian context After presenting the current state of research in the Lord's Prayer from an exegetical perspective this book discusses a wide field of hermeneutical approaches such as inculturation biblical hermeneutics mother tongue biblical hermeneutics African feminist biblical hermeneutics liberation biblical hermeneutics and post colonial biblical hermeneutics Taking the discussions of these approaches together it was realised that the general hermeneutical setting in Ghana and Africa as whole is reader centred i e the readers play an active role in the hermeneutical process and the results of the hermeneutical process are aimed at the readers contexts and the transformation of those contexts

The Prophetic Voice of Amos on Contemporary Social Justice Patrick Kofi Amissah, 2023-09-14 This volume comprehensively examines all texts dealing with social justice in the Prophecy of Amos It also provides evidence of contemporary systemic social injustice The volume then reflects on how biblical social justice is relevant to the contemporary quest for social justice This volume demonstrates that irrespective of the hermeneutical challenges the principles gleaned from the pages of the Hebrew Bible can dialogue effectively with modern issues and deduce living principles that could enable us to deal with issues that confront us today It is thus a framework by which biblical social justice illuminates the contemporary quest for social justice

Translation Revisited Mamadou Diawara, Elísio S. Macamo, Jean-Bernard Ouédraogo, 2019-01-17 How realistic is it to expect translation to render the world intelligible in a context shaped by different historical trajectories and experiences Can we rely on human universals to translate through the unique and specific webs of meaning that languages represent If knowledge production is a kind of translation then it is fair to assume that the possibility of translation has largely rested on the idea that Western experience is the repository of these human universals against the background of which different human experiences can be rendered intelligible The problem with this assumption however is that there are limits to Western claims to universalism mainly because these claims were at the service of the desire to justify imperial expansion This book addresses issues arising from these claims to universalism in the process of producing knowledge about diverse African social realities It shows that the idea of knowledge production as translation can be usefully deployed to inquire into how knowledge of Africa translates into an imperial attempt at changing local norms institutions and spiritual values Translation in this sense is the normalization of meanings issuing from a local historical experience claiming to be universal The task of producing knowledge of African social realities cannot be adequately addressed without a prior critical engagement with how translation has come to shape our ways of rendering Africa intelligible
