Gettysburg Address

Four score and seven years ago our fathers brought forth on this globe, a new nation, conceived in Liberty, and dedicated to the proposition that all men are created equal. Now we are engaged in a great civil war, testing whether that nation, so conceived and so dedicated, can long endure. We have come to dedicate a portion of that field as a final resting place for those who here gave their lives that that nation might live. It is for us the living, the greater the work, the more arduous the task. But, in a larger sense, we can dedicate - to this ground. The brave men, living and dead, who struggled here, can never forget what they have done here - and we can never forget what they have done here. It is rather for us to be here dedicated to the unfinished work which they here advanced. It is rather for us to be here dedicated to the unfinished work which they here advanced. It is rather for us to be here dedicated to the unfinished work which they here advanced.
