Engineers estimate, based on measurements taken on various vehicle components and bodies, that a car's structural strength is the result of 30 different factors. The body of a vehicle is made of various materials, and the strength of each material is a function of its composition and the way it is processed. The strength of a material is also a function of the way it is joined to other parts of the vehicle.

• Input: a sequence of Latent Space Representations (code vectors) used to generate a sequence of images or a video (any format possible) (think: content level or genre content level) where the relevant content is represented with a selected input sequence (existing data base). (This means a relevant video, text, image content base).
