

(a) Mating of inbred mouse strains with different MHC haplotypes

(b) Skin transplantation of an inbred mouse strain with same or different MHC haplotype

FIGURE 10-3 (a) Illustration of inheritance of MHC haplotypes in inbred mouse strains. The letters d/b designate a mouse haplotype for the H-2^d MHC haplotype, and b/b is designated for the H-2^b haplotype, as d/b is a haplotype because the MHC loci are closely linked and inherited as a unit. The MHC haplotype of F₁ progeny from crossing of two different inbred strains can be predicted easily. (b) Acceptance or rejection of skin grafts is controlled by the MHC, not by the inbred mice. The progeny of the cross between two inbred strains with different MHC haplotypes (H-2^d and H-2^b) will express haplotypes (H-2^{db}) and will accept grafts from either parent and from one other. Neither parent strain will accept grafts from the offspring. (c) Inheritance of HLA haplotypes in a hypothetical human family (i.e., man, the 'paternal' HLA haplotype is arbitrarily designated A and B, man's, and D. Because humans are in one species and there are many alleles at the HLA locus, the alleles comprising the haplotypes must be determined by typing parent and progeny. (d) The genes that make up each parental haplotype in the hypothetical family in (c) are shown along with a new haplotype that arises from recombination of maternal haplotypes.
