

Graduation Speech

Hello. It is an honor for me to be here tonight to bring greetings and congratulations from the school board.

As I began thinking about what I should say to you, I discovered that I could go on for hours talking about your years at (name of school) High School . . . about the experiences you've had which prepared you for this day and for the future. I began making notes about all the advice I should share with you and about all of the many topics I wanted to cover.

Then a friend reminded me about the fate of the famous Greek philosopher, Socrates, who lived a long, long time ago.

Socrates was very intelligent. But Socrates gave long speeches, and his friends killed him.

Since I am no Socrates . . . nor do I want to end up like Socrates . . . I will be brief and to the point.

Tonight (number of graduates) seniors are graduating from (name of school) High School. The room is packed with your friends and relatives, and every person here is proud of you . . . of your accomplishments . . . and of the goals that you have reached. If each of us were to write down a definition of a successful graduate, we would quickly discover that some of the same words and phrases would be repeated over and over again. Common themes would be – dedication, perseverance, integrity, honesty, conscientiousness, dependability and hard work.

From all of the terms used to describe graduates, the one I think should receive top billing is "winner". Each and every one of you is a winner! You have demonstrated through hard work, dependability, conscientiousness,

State Department of Education, 1929 Practitioner Agency and Identity in English for Academic Purposes Alex Ding, Laetitia Monbec, 2024-05-02 This volume provides insights into EAP practitioners identity and agency in varied contexts and field positions Each chapter delves into a theoretical perspective Bourdieu's field theory Post humanism Legitimation Code Theory Symbolic Interactionism and a variety of methodologies enabling different questions to be explored Each chapter is also a window into the everyday life of practitioners as they navigate their professional lives and the specificities of their EAP contexts the politics and struggles over power domination legitimacy status ambition and recognition The authors concerns and strategies vary and show that the weight of powerful structures and collective habitus is difficult but not impossible to resist From a socio analysis of EAP and its narratives of origins to a discussion on Ethics in EAP and a critique of the Global South label the reader will explore contributions from Canada Hong Kong Malaysia Pakistan Singapore South Africa the UK and Zimbabwe The chapters reveal a field which is made up of a constellation of worlds each with its own logic but importantly a field with no centre The studies in the chapters are likely to intrigue inspire but also disrupt some readers expectations and challenge their assumptions about the field and its practitioners

Humanism and Protestantism in Early Modern English Education Ian Green,2016-05-13 This volume is the first attempt to assess the impact of both humanism and Protestantism on the education offered to a wide range of adolescents in the hundreds of grammar schools operating in England between the Reformation and the Enlightenment By placing that education in the context of Lutheran Calvinist and Jesuit education abroad it offers an overview of the uses to which Latin and Greek were put in English schools and identifies the strategies devised by clergy and laity in England for coping with the tensions between classical studies and Protestant doctrine It also offers a reassessment of the role of the godly in English education and demonstrates the many ways in which a classical education came to be combined with close support for the English Crown and established church One of the major sources used is the school textbooks which were incorporated into the English Stock set up by leading members of the Stationers Company of London and reproduced in hundreds of thousands of copies during the seventeenth and eighteenth centuries Although the core of classical education remained essentially the same for two centuries there was a growing gulf between the methods by which classics were taught in elite institutions such as Winchester and Westminster and in the many town and country grammar schools in which translations or bilingual versions of many classical texts were given to weaker students The success of these new translations probably encouraged editors and publishers to offer those adults who had received little or no classical education new versions of works by Aesop Cicero Ovid Virgil Seneca and Caesar This fascination with ancient Greece and Rome left its mark not only on the lifestyle and literary tastes of the educated elite but also reinforced the strongly moralistic outlook of many of the English laity who equated virtue and good works with pleasing God and meriting salvation
