These differences are best used to model various other life span questions from the same study.

Abstract

1. Obvious and hidden subunit variables: In a matrix of 20 (1), together, they form a total of 35 variables. Does anyone remember those early days of RISC?

Figure diagrams are visual models that are challenging to represent the parts of a ratio. Since they are a visual model, drawing them requires attention to detail in the setup. In this problem, David and Jason have numbers of marbles in a ratio of 2:3. This ratio is modeled here by drawing 2 rectangles to represent David's portions, and 3 rectangles to represent Jason's portions. The rectangles are colored in red and blue to, in the left hand side, have color visual reference. The large brackets on the right illustrate the total number of marbles David and Jason have (50). It is clear visually that the large blue 3 rectangles are 30 marbles, and that the total number of marbles is 50. This information will be used to solve the problem.
