Aims and objectives: To gain insight into mental health staff's perception of writing progress notes in an acute and subacute psychiatric ward context.

Background: The nursing process structures nursing documentation. Progress notes are intended to be an evaluation of a patient's nursing diagnoses, interventions and outcomes. Within this template, a patient's status and the care provided are to be recorded. The therapeutic nurse–patient relationship is recognised as a key component of psychiatric care today. At the same time, the biomedical model remains strong. Research literature exploring nursing staff's experiences with writing progress notes in psychiatric contexts, and especially the space given to staff–patient relations, is sparse.

Design: Qualitative design.

Methods: Focus group interviews with mental health staff working in one acute and one subacute psychiatric ward were conducted. Systematic text condensation, a method for transverse thematic analysis, was used.

Results: Two main categories emerged from the analysis: the position of the professional as an expert and distant observer in the progress notes, and the weak position of professional–patient interactions in progress notes.

Conclusions: The participants did not perceive that the current recording model, which is based on the nursing process, supported a focus on patients' resources or reporting professional–patient interactions. This model appeared to put ward staff in an expert position in relation to patients, which made it challenging to involve patients in the recording process. Essential aspects of nursing care related to recovery and person-centred care were not prioritised for documentation.

Relevance to clinical practice: This study contributes to the critical examination of the documentation praxis, as well as to the critical examination of the documentation tool as to what is considered important to document.

Writing and Reading Mental Health Records J. Frederick Reynolds, David C. Mair, Pamela C. Fischer, 2013-12-02 This revised and updated second edition is a rhetorical analysis of written communication in the mental health community. As such, it contributes to the growing body of research being done in rhetoric and composition studies on the nature of writing and reading in highly specialized professional discourse communities. Many compelling questions answered in this volume include: What ideological biases are reflected in the language the nurse rhetorician uses to talk to and talk about the patient? How does language figure into the process of constructing meaning in this context? What social interactions with the patient with other nurses with physicians influence the nurse's attempt to construct meaning in this context? How do the readers of assessment construct their own meanings of the assessment? Based on an ongoing collaboration between composition studies specialists and mental health practitioners, this book presents research of value not only to writing scholars and teachers but also to professional clinicians, their teachers, and those who read mental health records in order to make critically important decisions. It can also be valuable as a model for other scholars to follow when conducting similar long-range studies of other writing-intensive professions.

DSM-5-TR for Nurses Made Easy Keshon Orra Petersen, Thando Thando McIntyre, DSM 5 TR for Nurses Made Easy: A Practical Casebook for Assessment and Diagnosis. Master psychiatric diagnosis with this essential nursing resource that transforms complex DSM 5 TR criteria into practical assessment skills. This comprehensive casebook bridges the gap between psychiatric theory and clinical application, providing nurses with the tools needed to confidently navigate mental health assessment in any healthcare setting. Through real-world case studies and clinical examples, this guide illustrates how to identify key diagnostic criteria, conduct thorough assessments, and develop appropriate care plans. The text breaks down challenging concepts into accessible language without sacrificing clinical accuracy or depth. Key features include: Step-by-step guidance for conducting comprehensive psychiatric interviews; Cultural and diversity considerations for accurate assessment across populations; LGBTQ-specific mental health assessment approaches; Practice questions and diagnostic reasoning exercises for certification exam preparation; Interdisciplinary communication templates for effective care coordination; Implementation strategies for various clinical settings from inpatient to community care; Emerging diagnostic concepts and technological advances in psychiatric assessment. This resource includes quick-reference diagnostic criteria, validated assessment tools, documentation templates, and medication considerations critical for nursing practice. The practical approach emphasizes clinical application rather than memorization, making complex psychiatric concepts accessible to nurses at all experience levels. Perfect for nursing students, new graduates, practicing nurses transitioning to psychiatric settings, and experienced psychiatric nurses seeking to update their knowledge with DSM 5 TR changes. This casebook serves as both a clinical companion and an educational resource that will remain valuable throughout your nursing career. Ideal for courses in psychiatric nursing, mental health assessment, and advanced practice psychiatric nursing. Enhance your diagnostic skills, improve patient outcomes, and build confidence in psychiatric assessment with this indispensable nursing guide.
