I: Identifying Data. Ashley K. is a 23-year old white woman who was confessed to Warner Transitional Solutions on 11/21/12. II: Chief Grievance. "I am a little distressed and upset right now. IDTC in Lafayette could refrain from doing anything for me". III: Informants. Evaluation info was offered by patient. Interview was performed in a personal space along with psychiatrist, and lead clinician. Other sources utilized for this examination consisted of files from her previous two placements. IV: Factor for Consultation. Client was described Warner Transitional Providers by Indiana Developmental Training Center of Lafayette. She ended up being a candidate for Warner's program due to her development through treatment, enhanced habits, and having the ability to function at a greater level than many patients at her previous positioning. Patient was discharged from state medical facility and moved to facility. Patient will probably remain at Warner until she can be transitioned into a group home. The treatment group thinks that Warner's program can improve her overall functioning. The group likewise thinks that she can gain from a more group orientated, and less restrictive environment. V: History of Present Illness. The details obtained in the evaluation, and previous records leads me to presume the client has actually had an extremely complex history. Documents obtained paint Ashley as being understood for manipulation, and making up stories. During the interview she was frequently vibrant and graphic when she began to explain information. Likewise, as she informed her story redirection was typically required to remain focused on the question talked about. She tends to desire to address concerns with questions, and appeared to choose elaborating on certain subjects, instead of progress and complete the interview. Ashley was upcoming with details mentioning "I usually mess up by hurting myself when I talk, or speak with my household". She then rolled up her shirt and showed me a bunch of shallow cuts on her ideal arm. Patient seems to be a great story teller, but a bad historian. Throughout the evaluation process the treatment group was rather confused regarding if a few of the historical details offered were originated from Ashley herself, previous documents, or household members. VI: Psychiatric History. Ashley has historical diagnoses of PTSD and major depression, made at the age of seven. St. Joseph County DCS became involved with her in 1999 due to substantiated physical abuse by her father. The very next year she was seen in the emergency room for a 25 pound weight loss sustained in one month. At this time Ashley reported sexual abuse by her father. The patient's father previously had been investigated for molesting a neighbor's child. As a result, the patient and her siblings were removed from the home, and made wards of the state. At some point they were returned to the home then Ashley's sisters made allegations that she had been "humping" them. In 2004 Ashley was once again declared a Child In Need Of Services. Since then, patient behavior has been difficult to manage. She has a documented history of defiance, property destruction, aggression, and self-harm. As a result, Ashley has had multiple...
