Stoff,Becky Berry,Mark Klopfenstein,2019 Cross-Cultural Encounters in Modern World History, 1453-Present Jon Davidann,Marc Jason Gilbert,2019-02-08 One of the hallmarks of world history is the ever increasing ability of humans to cross cultural boundaries Taking an encounters approach that opens up history to different perspectives and experiences Cross Cultural Encounters in Modern World History examines cultural contact between people from across the globe between 1453 and the present The book examines the historical record of these contacts distilling from those processes patterns of interaction different peoples perspectives and the ways these encounters tended to subvert the commonly accepted assumptions about differences between peoples in terms of race ethnicity nationhood or empire This new edition has been updated to employ current scholarship and address recent developments as well as increasing the treatment of indigenous agency including the major role played by Polynesians in the spread of Christianity in Oceania The final chapter has been updated to reflect the refugee crisis and the evolving political situation in Europe concerning its immigrant population Supported by engaging discussion questions and enlivened with the voices and views of those who were and remain directly engaged in the process of cross cultural exchange this highly accessible volume remains a valuable resource for all students of world history Founding Myths Ray Raphael,2014-07-04 The tenth anniversary edition of the book that showed why we must move past historical nonsense so that a truer more democratic national record can emerge School Library Journal Originally published to universal acclaim award winning historian Ray Raphael s Founding Myths has since established itself as a landmark of historical myth busting With Raphael s trademark wit and flair Founding Myths exposed the errors and inventions in America s most cherished tales from Paul Revere s famous ride to Patrick Henry s Liberty or Death speech For the thousands who have been captivated by Raphael s eye opening accounts history has never been the same In this revised tenth anniversary edition Raphael revisits the original myths and further explores their evolution over time uncovering new stories and peeling back new layers of misinformation This new edition also examines the highly politicized debates over America s past as well as how our approach to history in school reinforces rather than corrects historical mistakes A book that explores the truth behind the stories of the making of our nation National Public Radio this revised edition of Founding Myths will be a welcome resource for anyone seeking to separate historical fact from fiction

Why You Can't Teach United States History without American Indians Susan Sleeper-Smith, Juliana Barr, Jean M. O'Brien, Nancy Shoemaker, Scott Manning Stevens, 2015-04-20 A resource for all who teach and study history this book illuminates the unmistakable centrality of American Indian history to the full sweep of American history The nineteen essays gathered in this collaboratively produced volume written by leading scholars in the field of Native American history reflect the newest directions of the field and are organized to follow the chronological arc of the standard American history survey Contributors reassess major events themes groups of historical actors and approaches social cultural military and political consistently demonstrating how Native American people and questions of Native American sovereignty have animated all the ways we consider the nation's past The uniqueness of Indigenous history as interwoven more fully in the American story will challenge students to think in new ways about larger themes in U S history such as settlement and colonization economic and political power citizenship and movements for equality and the fundamental question of what it means to be an American Contributors are Chris Andersen Juliana Barr David R M Beck Jacob Betz Paul T Conrad Mikal Brotnov Eckstrom Margaret D Jacobs Adam Jortner Rosalyn R LaPier John J Laukaitis K Tsianina Lomawaima Robert J Miller Mindy J Morgan Andrew Needham Jean M O'Brien Jeffrey Ostler Sarah M S Pearsall James D Rice Phillip H Round Susan Sleeper Smith and Scott Manning Stevens

Cross-Cultural Encounters in Modern World History Jon Thares Davidann, Marc Jason Gilbert, 2016-09-16 Cross Cultural Encounters in Modern World History explores cultural contact as an agent of change It takes an encounters approach to world history since 1500 rather than a political one to reveal different perspectives and experiences as well as key patterns and transformations It studies the spaces between cultures historically to help us transcend human differences today in a rapidly globalizing world The text focuses on first encounters that suggest long term developments and particularly significant encounters that have changed the direction of world history Because of the complexities of these encounters the author takes a user friendly approach to keep the text accessible to students with varying backgrounds in history

Race and Education in New Orleans Walter Stern, 2018-05-04 Surveying the two centuries that preceded Jim Crow's demise Race and Education in New Orleans traces the course of the city's education system from the colonial period to the start of school desegregation in 1960 This timely historical analysis reveals that public schools in New Orleans both suffered from and maintained the racial stratification that characterized urban areas for much of the twentieth century Walter C Stern begins his account with the mid eighteenth century kidnapping and enslavement of Marie Justine Sirnir who eventually secured her freedom and played a major role in the development of free black education in the Crescent City As Sirnir's story and legacy illustrate schools such as the one she envisioned were central to the black antebellum understanding of race citizenship and urban development Black communities fought tirelessly to gain better access to education which gave rise to new strategies by white civilians and officials who worked to maintain and strengthen the racial status quo even as they conceded to demands from the black community for expanded educational opportunities. The friction between black and white New Orleanians continued throughout the nineteenth century and well into the twentieth when conflicts over land and resources sharply intensified. Stern argues that the post Reconstruction reorganization of the city into distinct black and white enclaves marked a new phase in the evolution of racial disparity. Segregated schools gave rise to segregated communities which in turn created structural inequality in housing that impeded desegregation's capacity to promote racial justice. By taking a long view of the interplay between education, race, and urban change, Stern underscores the fluidity of race as a social construct and the extent to which the Jim Crow system evolved through a dynamic though often improvisational process. A vital and accessible history, Race and Education in New Orleans provides a comprehensive look at the ways the New Orleans school system shaped the city's racial and urban landscapes.

The Many Panics of 1837 Jessica M. Lepler, 2013-09-16 In the spring of 1837 people panicked as financial and economic uncertainty spread within and between New York, New Orleans, and London. Although the period of panic would dramatically influence political, cultural, and social history, those who panicked sought to erase from history their experiences of one of America's worst early financial crises. The Many Panics of 1837 reconstructs this period in order to make arguments about the national boundaries of history, the role of information in the economy, the personal and local nature of national and international events, the origins and dissemination of economic ideas, and most importantly, what actually happened in 1837. This riveting transatlantic cultural history based on archival research on two continents reveals how people transformed their experiences of financial crisis into the Panic of 1837, a single event that would serve as a turning point in American history and an early inspiration for business cycle theory.

The All-Consuming Nation Mark H. Lytle, 2021-10-05 In his 1958 kitchen debate with Nikita Khrushchev, Richard Nixon argued that the freedom to consume defined the American way of life. High wages, full employment, new technologies, and a rapid growth in population known as the Baby Boom ushered in a golden age of economic growth. By the end of the twentieth century, consumerism triumphed over communism, socialism, and all other isms seeking to win hearts and minds around the world. Advertising, popular culture, and mass media persuaded Americans that shopping was both spiritually fulfilling and a patriotic virtue. Mark Lytle argues that Nixon's view of consumer democracy contained fatal flaws: if unregulated, it would wholly ignore the creative destruction that, in destroying jobs, erodes the capacity to consume. The All-Consuming Nation also examines how planners failed to take into account the environmental costs as early warning signs: whether smog over Los Angeles, the overuse of toxic chemicals such as DDT, or the Cuyahoga River in flames, provided evidence that all was not well. Environmentalists from Aldo Leopold, Rachel Carson, and Paul Ehrlich to Ralph Nader and Al Gore cautioned that modern consumerism imposed unsustainable costs on the natural world. Not for lack of warning, climate change became the defining issue of the twenty-first century. The All-Consuming Nation investigates the environmental and sociocultural costs of the consumer capitalism framework set in place in the 20th century shedding light on the consequences of a national identity forged through mass consumption Taking Charge, Making Change Robert W. Galler (Jr.), 2025-01-22 Taking Charge Making Change gives voice to generations of Native people from Crow Creek Lower Brule and other reservations in North Dakota and South Dakota who shaped a school originally designed to foster Catholicism and assimilation Local initiatives and collaboration transformed the Catholic Stephan Mission boarding school into the Crow Creek Tribal School which now features both tribal traditions and American educational programs Through archival research and interviews with parents graduates teachers and staff at Crow Creek and the surrounding community Robert W Galler Jr places Native students at the heart of the narrative demonstrating multifaceted family connections at a nineteenth century on reservation religious school that evolved into a tribally run institution in the 1970s He shows numerous ways that community members worked with Catholic leaders and ultimately transformed their mindsets and educational approaches over nearly a century While recognizing the many challenges and tragedies that Native students endured Galler highlights the creativity collaborations and contributions of the students and graduates to their communities Taking Charge Making Change shows how individuals and families helped to found the school maintain enrollment secure funding and influence school policies Its graduates went on to serve with distinction in the U S military earn advanced degrees after college join and lead tribal councils in North and South Dakota help their communities push back against federal policies and continue to run their own education system Communities of Ludlow Fawn-Amber Montoya, Karin Larkin, 2022-07-15 For more than one hundred years people have come to the Ludlow Massacre Memorial site to remember the dead to place themselves within a larger narrative of labor history and to learn about what occurred there Communities of Ludlow reveals the perseverance memory and work that has been done to enrich and share the narratives of the people of Ludlow and the experiences of those who commemorate it The history of the Ludlow Massacre encompasses the stories of immigrant groups women the working class and people of color as much as the story of that tragedy and the continued relevance of these issues creates a need for remembrance and discussion of how to make the events of the Ludlow Massacre available to contemporary society The book outlines recent efforts to remember and commemorate this important historical event documenting the unique collaborations in public scholarship and outreach among the diverse group of people involved in marking the 100 year anniversary of the Ludlow Massacre The chapters relate the tales of the stewards of the Ludlow Massacre the various communities that rallied together to keep this history alive and show its relevance including lineal descendants members of the United Mine Workers of America historians archaeologists scholars artists interpreters authors playwrights and politicians The book also offers tips strategies and cautionary tales for practicing engaged public scholarship The history of the Ludlow Massacre has been told as a tragedy of striking miners in the West that occurred during a turbulent time in US labor relations but it is so much more than that Communities of Ludlow explores the intersections of
