Making Up Our Mind Sigal R. Ben-Porath, Michael C. Johanek, 2019-04-24 If free market advocates had total control over education policy would the shared public system of education collapse Would school choice revitalize schooling with its innovative force With proliferating charters and voucher schemes would the United States finally make a dramatic break with its past and expand parental choice Those are not only the wrong questions they re the wrong premises argue philosopher Sigal R Ben Porath and historian Michael C Johanek in Making Up Our Mind Market driven school choices aren t new They predate the republic and for generations parents have chosen to educate their children through an evolving mix of publicly supported private charitable and entrepreneurial enterprises The question is not whether to have school choice It is how we will regulate who has which choices in our mixed market for schooling and what we as a nation hope to accomplish with that mix of choices Looking beyond the simplistic divide between those who oppose government intervention and those who support public education the authors make the case for a structured landscape of choice in schooling one that protects the interests of children and of society while also identifying key shared values on which a broadly acceptable policy could rest

Wertheimer,2015-08-18 An intimate cross country look at the new debate over religion in the public schools A suburban Boston school unwittingly started a firestorm of controversy over a sixth grade field trip The class was visiting a mosque to learn about world religions when a handful of boys unnoticed by their teachers joined the line of worshippers and acted out the motions of the Muslim call to prayer A video of the prayer went viral with the title Wellesley Massachusetts Public School Students Learn to Pray to Allah Charges flew that the school exposed the children to Muslims who intended to convert American schoolchildren Wellesley school officials defended the course but also acknowledged the delicate dance teachers must perform when dealing with religion in the classroom Courts long ago banned public school teachers from preaching of any kind But the question remains How much should schools teach about the world s religions Answering that question in recent decades has pitted schools against their communities Veteran education journalist Linda K Wertheimer spent months with that class and traveled to other communities around the nation listening to voices on all sides of the controversy including those of clergy teachers children and parents who are Muslim Jewish Christian Sikh or atheist In Lumberton Texas nearly a hundred people filled a school board meeting to protest a teacher s dress up exercise that allowed freshman girls to try on a burka as part of a lesson on Islam In Wichita Kansas a Messianic Jewish family s opposition to a bulletin board display about Islam in an elementary school led to such upheaval that the school had to hire extra security Across the country parents have requested that their children be excused from lessons on Hinduism and Judaism out of fear they will shy away from their own faiths But in Modesto a city in the heart of California s Bible Belt teachers have avoided problems since 2000 when the school system began requiring all high school freshmen to take a world religions course Students receive comprehensive lessons on the three major world religions as well as on Sikhism Hinduism Buddhism and often Shintoism Taoism and Confucianism One Pentecostal Christian girl terrified by idols including a six inch gold Buddha learned to be comfortable with other students beliefs Wertheimer s fascinating investigation which includes a return to her rural Ohio school which once ran weekly Christian Bible classes reveals a public education system struggling to find the right path forward and offers a promising roadmap for raising a new generation of religiously literate Americans

If Einstein Ran the Schools Thomas Armstrong Ph.D., 2019-10-11 Many world class thinkers and creators have been concerned about the state of education in the United States Discover their thoughts on how children really learn and what teachers must do to optimally tap children s latent abilities During the last three decades education reformers have pushed standardized testing and policies like No Child Left Behind and Common Core to improve test scores and proficiency in basic skills However during this period that author Thomas Armstrong calls the miseducation of America a number of troubling trends have surfaced including a decrease in creative thinking scores among children in kindergarten through third grade Rather than focus on what s wrong with the education system that has produced these outcomes Armstrong lays out what creative thinkers know about how children should be educated In an extended thought experiment he asks what would happen if we turned the reins of educational policy over not to the politicians and educational bureaucrats but to eminent thinkers and creators like Albert Einstein Pablo Picasso Martin Luther King Jr Rachel Carson Doris Lessing Jane Goodall and other seminal culture builders What might they say about the best way to educate a child If Einstein Ran the Schools suggests that the answers to this intriguing question should guide future efforts to reform our nation s schools
