Formless Ways In And Out Of Form:

Formless Patrick Crowley, Paul Hegarty, 2005 The papers in this volume challenge the concept of form and aim to set out explore and develop different theories and examples of the formless In so doing they raise questions of form and notions of formlessness as distinct from something called the formless The starting point for many of the contributors is Georges Bataille's highly influential article entitled informe formless Here in a context where art philosophy and anthropology were merging Bataille tried to question the idea of formlessness as simply applying to things without form This book through a diversity of articles in various domains asks how and why the formless is such a dominant idea from the nineteenth century onwards and it asks the question what is formless

An Aesthetics of Injury Ian Fleishman, 2018-03-15 An Aesthetics of Injury exposes wounding as a foundational principle of modernism in literature and film Theorizing the genre of the narrative wound texts that aim not only to depict but also to inflict injury Ian Fleishman reveals harm as an essential aesthetic strategy in ten exemplary authors and filmmakers Charles Baudelaire Franz Kafka Georges Bataille Jean Genet Hélène Cixous Ingeborg Bachmann Elfriede Jelinek Werner Schroeter Michael Haneke and Quentin Tarantino Violence in the modernist mode an ostensible intrusion of raw bodily harm into the artwork aspires to transcend its own textuality and yet as An Aesthetics of Injury establishes the wound paradoxically remains the essence of inscription Fleishman thus shows how the wound once the modernist emblem par excellence of an immediate aesthetic experience comes to be implicated in a postmodern understanding of reality reduced to ceaseless mediation In so doing he demonstrates how what we think of as the most real object the human body becomes indistinguishable from its nonreal function as text At stake in this tautological textual model is the heritage of narrative thought both the narratological workings of these texts how they tell stories and the underlying epistemology exposed whether these narrativists still believe in narrative at all With fresh and revealing readings of canonical authors and filmmakers seldom treated alongside one another An Aesthetics of Injury is important reading for scholars working on literary or cinematic modernism and the postmodern philosophy narratology body culture studies queer and gender studies trauma studies and cultural theory

Writing of the Formless Jaime Rodríguez Matos, 2016-12-01 In this book Jaime Rodríguez Matos proposes the formless as a point of departure in thinking through the relationship between politics and time Thinking through both literary and political writings around the Cuban Revolution Rodríguez Matos explores the link between abstract symbolic procedures and various political experiments that have sought to give form to a principle of sovereignty based on the category of representation In doing so he proposes the formless as the limit of modern and contemporary reflections on the meaning of politics while exploring the philosophical consequences of a formless concept of temporality for the critique of metaphysics Rodríguez Matos takes the writing and thought of José Lezama Lima as the guiding thread in exploring the possibility of a politics in which time is imagined beyond the disciplining functions it has had throughout the metaphysical tradition a time of the absence of time in which the absence of time no longer means

The Liberation of Consciousness from Identification with Form Steven Kaufman,2019-05-30 The purpose of this work is to explain in detail how consciousness identifies with form how that identification is perpetuated by the reactivity that naturally follows and why this misidentification is a necessary part of the evolution of consciousness into ever greater awareness of itself Ultimately the reason for explaining all of this is to make it clear that the way out of this self constructed and self perpetuated delusion is through some degree of nonreactivity That is what will be explained is that the way out of what seems to be the trap in which we have purposefully placed ourselves lies simply through ceasing to continuously interact with the world in a way that is dictated solely by our delusion regarding our nature i e by the idea that what we are is form Because as long as we continue to interact with the world solely on the basis of this delusion the delusion cannot do other than persist And as long as the delusion persists as long as we are actively generating and perpetuating this delusion through our reactivity i e through the way in which we naturally tend to interact with the world of form while knowing ourselves as form we must continue to know ourselves as we are not and so we must also continue to suffer

Philoponus': On Aristotle On the Soul 3.1-8 W. Charlton,2014-04-22 In On the Soul 3 1 8 Aristotle first discusses the functions common to all five senses such as self awareness and then moves on to Imagination and Intellect This commentary on Aristotle s text has traditionally been ascribed to Philoponus but William Charlton argues here that it should be ascribed to a later commentator Stephanus. The quotation marks used around his name indicate this disputed authorship. Philoponus reports the postulation of a special faculty for self awareness intended to preserve the unity of the person. He disagrees with Simplicius the author of another commentary on On the Soul also available in this series by insisting that Imagination can apprehend things as true or false and he disagrees with Aristotle by saying that we are not always free to imagine them otherwise than as they are. On Aristotle's Active Intellect Philoponus surveys different interpretations but ascribes to Plutarch of Athens and rejects the view adopted by the real Philoponus in his commentary on Aristotle's On Intellect that we have innate intellectual knowledge from a previous existence. Instead he takes the view that the Active Intellect enables us to form concepts by abstraction through serving as a model of something already separate from matter. Our commentator further disagrees with the real Philoponus by denying the Idealistic view that Platonic forms are intellects. Charlton sees Philoponus as the excellent teacher and expositor that Stephanus was said to be.
