Love and Poetry in the Middle East Atef Alshaer,2021-12-30 Love has been an important trope in the literature of the region we now call the Middle East from ancient times to modern This book analyses love poetry in various ancient and contemporary languages of the Middle East including Akkadian ancient Egyptian Classical and Modern Standard Arabic Persian Hebrew Turkish and Kurdish including literary materials that have been discovered and highlighted for the first time Together the chapters reflect and explore the discursive evolution of the theme of love and the sensibilities styles and techniques used to convey it They chart the way in which poems in ancient poetry give way to complex and varied reflections of human sentiments in the medieval languages and on to the modern period which in turn reflects the complexities and nuances of present times Offering a snapshot of the diverse literary languages and their relationship to the theme of love the book will be of interest to scholars of Near and Middle Eastern Literature and Culture Jewish Quarterly ,2001 Book Review Index ,2003 Vols 8 10 of the 1965 1984 master cumulation constitute a title index Hebrew studies ,2003 Place and Ideology in Contemporary Hebrew Literature Karen Grumberg,2012-01-05 John Brinckerhoff Jackson theorized the vernacular landscape as one that reflects a way of life guided by tradition and custom distanced from the larger world of politics and law This quotidian space is shaped by the everyday culture of its inhabitants In Place and Ideology in Contemporary Hebrew Literature Grumberg sets anchor in this and other contemporary theories of space and place then embarks on subtle close readings of recent Israeli fiction that demonstrate how literature in practice can complicate those discourses Literature in Israel over the past twenty five years tends to be set in ordinary spaces rather than in explicitly ideologically charged locations such as contested borders and debated territories Rarely taking place in settings of war and political violence it depicts characters encounters with everyday places such as buses and caf s as central to their self conception Yet in academic discussions the imaginative representations of these sites tend to be neglected in favor of spaces more overtly relevant to religious and political debates To fill this gap Grumberg proposes a new understanding of how Israeli identity is mapped onto the spaces it inhabits She demonstrates that in the writing of many Israeli novelists even mundane sites often have significant ideological implications Exploring a wide range of authors from Amos Oz to Orly Castel Bloom Grumberg argues that literary depictions of vernacular places play a profound and often unidentified role in serving or resisting ideology The Times Index ,2000 Indexes the Times and its supplements Bowker's Guide to Characters in Fiction 2007 ,2008-02 Close Encounters with Twenty Israeli Writers Eilat Negev,2003 This collection of biographies is the first of its kind as Israeli literature is almost devoid of author biographies They are arranged chronologically and cover a hundred years of Israeli literature the change of style and subject matter hints at the demographical and historical transformations that have occurred during this span of time The profiles are based on interviews carried out with all the living writers or in the case of deceased ones with family members biographers and researchers In the early days of the State Jaffa oranges were the pride export of Israel and then came diamonds and nowadays it is books Israelis are going through dramatic turbulent events experiencing an existential social and religious crisis This intense life means that Israelis occupy several layers of existence which create many kinds of personal experiences that writers in other countries seldom experience Thus a reading of the writers profiles offers a different way of viewing Israel since each writer has taken a part in events outside his or her own personal scope All this becomes their subject matter and Israel writing provides a wide panorama not just of literature but also of Israeli life The Blue Mountain Meir Shalev, 2002 The Blue Mountain is the first novel by one of Israel's most important and acclaimed contemporary writers and as with all his writing is a virtuoso example of Shalev's skill as a storyteller Published to outstanding reviews all over the world its publication in Britain re-affirms his reputation as a major international writer Set in a small rural village prior to the creation of the State of Israel this funny and hugely imaginative book paints an extraordinary picture of a small community of Ukrainian immigrants as they succeed in pioneering a new life in a new land over three generations The Blue Mountain transcends its time and place by touching on issues of universal relevance whilst never failing to entertain and engage the reader As with Four Meals the writing is lyrical and of exceptional quality and illustrates why Shalev has been steadily winning an ever increasing number of fans worldwide First 55 Years of the Achievement of Israeli Literature, 1948-2003, 2003
