

Business Case for My Fashion Neckties

Problem The fashion industry has experienced a serious shortage of new designs and styles, especially in the necktie market. This is due to the fact that the industry has been dominated by a few large companies that have been reluctant to invest in research and development. This has led to a lack of innovation and a decline in the quality of neckties. The purpose of this business case is to propose a new design and style for neckties that will attract a new generation of customers and increase sales.
