

The background image is a photograph of a dense forest. In the foreground, there is a low, rustic stone wall covered in moss and small green plants. The wall appears to be made of stacked stones. Behind the wall, the forest floor is covered in thick green moss and various small plants. In the background, there are tall trees with green leaves, and the sunlight filters through the canopy, creating a dappled light effect. The overall atmosphere is one of a wild, overgrown natural space.
