research can help produce in the words of Harvard's Dale W. Jorgenson a unified framework for future education reform. This book presents the perspectives of noted experts including Eric A. Hanushek, author of Making Schools Work on creating incentives for improved school and student performance; Under Secretary of Education Marshall S. Smith on the Clinton Administration's reform program; and Rebecca Maynard, University of Pennsylvania, on the education of the disadvantaged. This volume explores these areas: The importance of schooling to labor market success; The prospects for combining school-based management with teacher incentives to gain the best of both approaches; The potential of recent innovations in student achievement testing including new value-added indicators; The economic factors involved in maintaining an adequate stock of effective teachers. The volume also explores why, despite similar standards of living, France, the Netherlands, England, Scotland, and the United States produce different levels of education achievement. Improving America's Schools informs the current debate over school reform with a fresh perspective, examples, and data. This readable volume will be of interest to policymakers, researchers, educators, and education administrators as well as economists and employers; it is also readily accessible to concerned parents and the larger community.
