February 10, 2010

It is my deep honor to be able to write this letter of recommendation for Mr. Jayson Fetterley. I have known Jayson since Fall 2008, when I first interviewed him for participation in the University of Michigan Global Intercultural Experiences for Undergraduates (GIEU) program. This program involves two semesters of preparations culminating in a 3-4 week international trip to perform work or research while immersed in a different culture. I was the solely responsible Faculty Fellow for a trip to the Tetuwan Oyate (Sioux or Lakota) Territory, with home stays for students on the Pine Ridge Reservation (South Dakota). I conceived of the trip as a joke: commenting to the GIEU program director that I thought there were parts of the continental US that have active sovereignty disputes with U. S. government, and where, in fact, the culture is differs from our dominant culture more than the culture of other "foreign" countries. This eventually lead to my journey, accompanied by 12 undergraduates aging from 18 to 22 years old, for 4 weeks to what is undoubtedly the poorest, most isolating location in the continental US. This was the most difficult thing that I have ever done, including defending a doctoral dissertation at M. I. T. in the mid-1970s (first woman in my field to do so, and in the presence of substantial hostility). We were hosted by a leader of the traditional Treaty Council, which is distinct from the elected reservation government and recognized by many tribal members as the true, legitimate government of the people. She, the first woman leader in hundreds of years, is also spokesperson to the United Nations for the tribe. Our work was focussed on concerns about the environment, specifically past, present, and future uranium mining activities (I am a nuclear engineering professor in the #1 ranked nuclear engineering department in the US).

I could not have survived the trip without Jayson, the only male who travelled with us. He was one of two student leaders who mediated the uninterrupted trainwreck of issues.

Jayson was in a group of four who camped in two very small tents for 3 weeks, because the accommodations that were promised to the group did not materialize. They were literally surrounded by poisonous snakes, coyotes, and wildcats, not to mention gnats and mosquitoes and uncomfortable weather (from hot to cold). One of the four students living in the tents, who had never been camping, was terrified. Jayson held that group together repeatedly. A severe thunderstorm completely destroyed one of the tents at the end of the third week, and the group moved into a tin shack that became available that had no electricity or running water, except for the holes in the roof when it rained. The single-room shack was not much bigger than the tents, and much smaller than a travel trailer.

Hellrazed? Kevin Miller, 2017-11-15 In September 2012 the feature length documentary Hellbound was released in theaters across North America Joining a growing chorus of voices that were questioning the traditional view of hell as a place of eternal conscious torment the film asked a handful of burning questions Does hell exist If so who goes there and why More importantly what do our views about hell say about us and our understanding of God And how do our beliefs about these issues affect the kind of world we create the kind of people we become Five years later the debate over hell is far from settled but the landscape in which such questions are being asked has changed radically Hence filmmaker Kevin Miller decided it was time to go back to some of the people who appear in Hellbound and others he met along the way to get their input on how the debate has shifted and how it s remained the same The result is a plethora of voices offering all sorts of perspectives some highly academic some polemic some intensely personal and all bound to impact how readers think and feel about this issue

Borowiak,2011-07-01 Few political concepts are as emblematic of our era as democratic accountability In a time of political and economic turmoil in which global forces have destabilized conventional relations of political authority democratic accountability has come to symbolize both what is absent and what is desired in our polity Situated at the intersection of democratic theory and international studies Accountability and Democracy provides an in depth critical analysis of accountability Through an engagement with several key democratic traditions both ancient and modern the book paints a rich picture of democratic accountability as a multi dimensional concept harboring competing imperatives and diverse instantiations Contrary to dominant views that emphasize discipline and control Craig Borowiak offers an original and refreshing view of democratic accountability as a source of mutuality participation and political transformation He both creatively engages conventional electoral models of accountability and moves beyond them by situating democratic accountability within more deliberative participatory and agonistic contexts Provocatively the book also challenges deep seated understandings of democratic accountability as an expression of popular sovereignty Borowiak instead argues that accountable governance is incompatible with all claims to ultimate authority regardless of whether they refer to the demos the state or cosmopolitan public law Rather than conceiving of democratic accountability as a way to legitimize a secure and sovereign political order the book contends that destabilization and democratic insurgence are indispensable and often neglected facets of democratic accountability practices For contemporary scholars practitioners and activists grappling with the challenge of building democratic legitimacy into world politics the book urges greater reflexivity and nuance in how democratic accountability is evoked and implemented It offers insights into the myriad ways democratic accountability has been thwarted in the past while also cultivating a sense of expanded possibility for how it might be conceived for the present

Jesus and Myth Peter John Barber, 2021-02-15 Is Jesus mythological And is he a mere product of his cultural milieu Through narratological and social scientific analysis of the gospel account Barber systematically demonstrates that there are two opposing patterns structuring the gospel The first is the pattern of this world which is the combat myth with a typical sequence of motifs having mythological meanings It is lived out by everyone else in the accounts except Jesus because this pattern of the world is the pattern of myth culture which is the pattern of the old Adam and sin nature The pattern of Jesus is the pattern intended for Adam to walk in and is the unique pattern of the new Adam Jesus Christ Jesus s pattern inverts the sequence and subverts the significance of each and every motif and episode of the myth culture s pattern Barber shows that Jesus s failure to conform to this world s mythological pattern establishes that he is not mythological and not a product of his culture As the apostle Peter states we did not follow cleverly devised tales myths when we made known to you the power and coming of our Lord Jesus Christ but we were eyewitnesses of his majesty 2 Pet 1 16
