Franco , Beatriz Vázquez Belda, 2020-12-02 The world is full of plants and animals that have their own defenses producing various substances in their daily fight against bacteria fungi or other agents These products are alternatives to conventional antimicrobials that have a poor reputation with consumers Many of these compounds are well known however the multiple types of structures together with the variable responses depending of the type of biocontrol needed in a wide range of applications such as clinical agricultural general hygiene and food necessitates the continuous search for specific applications and the continuous study of how to use these substances The present book provides a summary of reviews and original research works that explore the multiple alternatives for the use of these compounds Les métiers de la biologie et des biotechnologies Chloé Leprince, 2007 Tous les m tiers en biologie De technicien de recherche charg de veille en passant par professeur et oenologue conseil les auteurs pr sentent les formations les coles les d bouch s et les diff rents m tiers du secteur Plasmids Marcelo E. Wastewater from Olive Oil Production Salah Souabi, Abdelkader Anouzla, 2023-02-10 This book summarizes the recent research development concerning olive oil wastewater management characterization environmental impact recovery and treatment The book combines different chapters on the management of olive oil rejects using simple techniques with low investment and operating costs The main focus of the book is Diagnosis impacts of olive oil waste and regulations The valorization of the margins and the olive waste Wastewater treatment and recovery Evaluation of investments and operating costs of treatment techniques Shaped by experience the authors present their view and approach to each focus area of managing liquid and solid waste produced by crushing units Translation Revisited Mamadou Diawara, Elísio S. Macamo, Jean-Bernard Ouédraogo, 2019-01-17 How realistic is it to expect translation to render the world intelligible in a context shaped by different historical trajectories and experiences Can we rely on human universals to translate through the unique and specific webs of meaning that languages represent If knowledge production is a kind of translation then it is fair to assume that the possibility of translation has largely rested on the idea that Western experience is the repository of these human universals against the background of which different human experiences can be rendered intelligible The problem with this assumption however is that there are limits to Western claims to universalism mainly because these claims were at the service of the desire to justify imperial expansion This book addresses issues arising from these claims to universalism in the process of producing knowledge about diverse African social realities It shows that the idea of knowledge production as translation can be usefully deployed to inquire into how knowledge of Africa translates into an imperial attempt at changing local norms institutions and spiritual values Translation in this sense is the normalization of meanings issuing from a local historical experience claiming to be universal The task of producing knowledge of African social realities cannot be adequately addressed without a prior critical engagement with how translation has come to shape our ways of rendering Africa intelligible
