Putin's Labor Dilemma Stephen Crowley, 2021-07-15 In Putin's Labor Dilemma Stephen Crowley investigates how the fear of labor protest has inhibited substantial economic transformation in Russia Putin boasts he has the backing of workers in the country's industrial heartland but as economic growth slows in Russia reviving the economy will require restructuring the country's industrial landscape At the same time doing so threatens to generate protest and instability from a key regime constituency However continuing to prop up Russia's Soviet era workplaces writes Crowley could lead to declining wages and economic stagnation threatening protest and instability Crowley explores the dynamics of a Russian labor market that generally avoids mass

unemployment the potentially explosive role of Russia's monotowns conflicts generated by massive downsizing in Russia's Detroit Tolyatti and the rapid politicization of the truck drivers movement Labor protests currently show little sign of threatening Putin's hold on power but the manner in which they are being conducted point to substantial chronic problems that will be difficult to resolve Putin's Labor Dilemma demonstrates that the Russian economy must either find new sources of economic growth or face stagnation Either scenario market reforms or economic stagnation raises the possibility even probability of destabilizing social unrest

Raced Markets Lisa Tilley, Robbie Shilliam, 2021-05-30 Despite rich archives of work on race and the global economy most notably by scholars of colour and Global South intellectuals the discipline of Political Economy has largely avoided an honest confrontation with how race works within the domains it studies not least within markets By way of corrective this book draws together scholarship on the material function of race at various scales in the global political economy The collective provocation of the contributors to this volume is that race has been integral to the formation of capitalism as extensively laid out by the racial capitalism literature and takes on new forms in the novel market spaces of neoliberalism The chapters within this volume also reinforce that the current political conjuncture marked by the ascension of neo fascist power cannot be defined by an exceptional intrusion of racism nor can its racism be dismissed as epiphenomenal Raced Markets will be of great value to scholars students and researchers interested in political economy and racial capitalism as well as those willing to explore how race takes on new forms in the novel market spaces of contemporary neoliberalism The chapters in this book were originally published as a special issue of the New Political Economy

The Meritocracy Trap Daniel Markovits, 2020-09-08 A revolutionary new argument from eminent Yale Law professor Daniel Markovits attacking the false promise of meritocracy It is an axiom of American life that advantage should be earned through ability and effort Even as the country divides itself at every turn the meritocratic ideal that social and economic rewards should follow achievement rather than breeding reigns supreme Both Democrats and Republicans insistently repeat meritocratic notions Meritocracy cuts to the heart of who we are It sustains the American dream But what if both up and down the social ladder meritocracy is a sham Today meritocracy has become exactly what it was conceived to resist a mechanism for the concentration and dynastic transmission of wealth and privilege across generations Upward mobility has become a fantasy and the embattled middle classes are now more likely to sink into the working poor than to rise into the professional elite At the same time meritocracy now ensnares even those who manage to claw their way to the top requiring rich adults to work with crushing intensity exploiting their expensive educations in order to extract a return All this is not the result of deviations or retreats from meritocracy but rather stems directly from meritocracy's successes This is the radical argument that Daniel Markovits prosecutes with rare force Markovits is well placed to expose the sham of meritocracy Having spent his life at elite universities he knows from the inside the corrosive system we are trapped within Markovits also knows that if we understand that meritocratic inequality produces near universal harm we can cure it When The Meritocracy Trap reveals the inner workings of the meritocratic machine it also illuminates the first steps outward towards a new world that might once again afford dignity and prosperity to the American people

Race and Education in New Orleans Walter Stern, 2018-05-04 Surveying the two centuries that preceded Jim Crow s demise Race and Education in New Orleans traces the course of the city s education system from the colonial period to the start of school desegregation in 1960 This timely historical analysis reveals that public schools in New Orleans both suffered from and maintained the racial stratification that characterized urban areas for much of the twentieth century Walter C Stern begins his account with the mid eighteenth century kidnapping and enslavement of Marie Justine Sirnir who eventually secured her freedom and played a major role in the development of free black education in the Crescent City As Sirnir s story and legacy illustrate schools such as the one she envisioned were central to the black antebellum understanding of race citizenship and urban development Black communities fought tirelessly to gain better access to education which gave rise to new strategies by white civilians and officials who worked to maintain and strengthen the racial status quo even as they conceded to demands from the black community for expanded educational opportunities The friction between black and white New Orleanians continued throughout the nineteenth century and well into the twentieth when conflicts over land and resources sharply intensified Stern argues that the post Reconstruction reorganization of the city into distinct black and white enclaves marked a new phase in the evolution of racial disparity segregated schools gave rise to segregated communities which in turn created structural inequality in housing that impeded desegregation s capacity to promote racial justice By taking a long view of the interplay between education race and urban change Stern underscores the fluidity of race as a social construct and the extent to which the Jim Crow system evolved through a dynamic though often improvisational process A vital and accessible history Race and Education in New Orleans provides a comprehensive look at the ways the New Orleans school system shaped the city s racial and urban landscapes the decline and closure of Sydney Steel are central to this book Featuring interviews with former steelworkers office employees managers politicians and community activists these one on one conversations reveal both the human cost of industrial closure and the lingering after effects of deindustrialization Planning London for the Post-War Era 1945-1960 Emmanuel V. Hoffmann,Adonia E. Lugo,Gerardo F. Sandoval,2016-07-15 As bicycle commuting grows in the United States the profile of the white middle class cyclist has emerged This stereotype evolves just as investments in cycling play an increasingly important role in neighborhood transformations However despite stereotypes the cycling public is actually quite diverse with the greatest share falling into the lowest income categories Bicycle Justice and Urban Transformation demonstrates that for those with privilege bicycling can be liberatory a lifestyle choice whereas for those surviving at the margins cycling is not a choice but an often oppressive necessity Ignoring these invisible cyclists skews bicycle improvements towards those with choices This book argues that it is vital to contextualize bicycling within a broader social justice framework if investments are to serve all street users equitably Bicycle justice is an inclusionary social movement based on furthering material equity and the recognition that qualitative differences matter This book illustrates equitable bicycle advocacy policy and planning In synthesizing the projects of critical cultural studies transportation justice and planning the book reveals the relevance of social justice to public and community driven investments in cycling This book will interest professionals advocates academics and students in the fields of transportation planning urban planning community development urban geography sociology and policy Bodies, Technologies and Methods Phil Jones,2020-04-14 This book examines how different technologies can be used to enhance research methods in the social sciences and humanities The boundary between the body and the digital has become increasingly blurred in recent years due to the rise of technologies that capture and reshape our embodied selves New technologies all too often reflect the attitudes of the privileged white men who dominate the tech sector This book thus in part considers how critical researchers can employ new technologies while challenging some of the problematic assumptions that underpin their design. It also includes a series of case studies that examine the dynamic use of different techniques to explore key questions around the intersection of embodiment and the digital. With a playful experimental approach to conducting research today, this book offers new cutting edge methods that respond to the potential of different technologies. It will be invaluable reading for undergraduate and post graduate students of social sciences and humanities to explore ways in which this approach can bring new insights to a range of interdisciplinary research questions.

The Birth of Psychological War Dr Jeffrey Whyte, 2023-07-19 The Birth of Psychological War explores the worlds of war propaganda, intelligence and espionage from which US psychological warfare emerged in the early years of the Second World War, developed during the Cold War of ideas against the Soviet Union and culminated in the counterinsurgency campaigns of the Vietnam War.

Brutal Beauty Jisha Menon, 2021-10-15 Brutal Beauty: Aesthetics and Aspiration in Urban India follows a postcolonial city as it transforms into a bustling global metropolis after the liberalization of the Indian economy. Taking the once idyllic garden city of Bangalore in southern India as its point of departure, the book explores how artists across India and beyond foreground neoliberalism as a structure of feeling permeating aesthetics, selfhood and everyday life. Jisha Menon conveys the affective life of the city through multiple aesthetic projects that express a range of urban feelings including aspiration, panic and obsolescence. As developers and policymakers remodel the city through tumultuous construction projects, urban beautification, privatization and other templated features of world class cities, urban citizens are also changing, transformed by nostalgia, narcissism, shame and the spaces where they dwell and work. Sketching out scenes of urban aspiration and its dark underbelly, Menon delineates the creative and destructive potential of India's lurch into contemporary capitalism, uncovering the interconnectedness of local and global power structures as well as art's capacity to absorb and critique liberalization's discontents. She argues that neoliberalism isn't just an economic, social and political phenomenon; neoliberalism is also a profoundly aesthetic project.
