Commodification of Global Agrifood Systems and Agro-Ecology Yıldız

Atasoy, 2017-05-18 This book explores the shifting relations of food provisioning in Turkey from a comparative global political economy perspective. It offers in depth ethnographic analysis, interviews and historical insights into the ambiguities and diversities that simultaneously affect the changing conditions of food and agriculture in Turkey. Specific issues examined include the commodification of land, food and labour, the expansion and deepening of industrial standardization, the expansion of a supermarket model and concomitant changes in as well as the simultaneous co-existence of traditional methods of production and marketing. Contrasting observations are drawn from diverse locales to provide examples of convergence, divergence and cohabitation in relation to transnationally advocated industrial models. Commodification of Global Agrifood Systems and Agro Ecology employs a form of comparative perspective that allows the particular processes of restructuring of agrifood relations in Turkey to be simultaneously distinguished from yet related to changes taking place in global power dynamics. Yıldız Atasoy explores agrifood transformation in Turkey with a unique approach that considers a plurality of intertwined normative influences, ontological beliefs, cultural, religious, narratives, political struggles and critical interpretive positions. Based on original research, the book treats changes in food provisioning as an analytical thread capable of uncovering how the normative acceptability of capitalized agriculture and techno-scientific innovation is entangled with processes of class formation, growing inter-capitalist competition and Islamic politics. Such processes in turn frame income, wealth, generation, landscape, management, agro-ecological dynamics and labour practices as well as the taste and smell of place.

Smart Development in Smart Communities Gilberto Antonelli, Giuseppe Cappiello, 2016-09-13

The concept of smart cities has become one of the most significant new lines of thinking to emerge in the social sciences in recent years, both from the research and policy angles. To date, the focus in smart specialization has been on what regions as a whole can do to bring about innovation, but it hasn't necessarily addressed the role cities play within the field. This book aims to address that gap, drawing together a team of leading contributors to illustrate this process with particular focus on cities. Smart Development in Smart Communities discusses the cross-fertilization between smart specialization and cities in fostering smart development and its interactions with the macro, micro and meso-economic framework from both a theoretical and applied perspective. Specific topics covered by the book include human capital formation and utilization, centralized, decentralized industrial policies, innovation policies, collective learning and the role of public utilities in sustaining smart development processes. This book tackles some of the most important questions that must be faced when investigating how structural change and innovation processes are shaping local and global economic development. It will be of interest to academics and researchers in the area of Development Economics, Urban Studies and Public Management.
