Tsuji, G. Hoogenboom, P.K. Thornton, 2013-03-14 The first premise of this book is that farmers need access to options for improving their situation In agricultural terms these options might be management alternatives or different crops to grow that can stabilize or increase household income that reduce soil degradation and dependence on off farm inputs or that exploit local market opportunities Farmers need a facilitating environment in which affordable credit is available if needed in which policies are conducive to judicious management of natural resources and in which costs and prices of production are stable Another key ingredient of this facilitating environment is information an understanding of which options are viable how these operate at the farm level and what their impact may be on the things that farmers perceive as being important The second premise is that systems analysis and simulation have an important role to play in fostering this understanding of options traditional field experimentation being time consuming and costly This book summarizes the activities of the International Benchmark Sites Network for Agrotechnology Transfer IBSNAT project an international initiative funded by the United States Agency for International Development USAID IBSNAT was an attempt to demonstrate the effectiveness of understanding options through systems analysis and simulation for the ultimate benefit of farm households in the tropics and subtropics The idea for the book was first suggested at one of the last IBSNAT group meetings held at the University of Hawaii in 1993 Annual Report of the Agricultural Experiment Station, Michigan State University Michigan State University. maintaining awareness of the risks taken on this journey Each paper is relevant to particular phases in this high wire walk and portrays the journeys of the authors within in order to inform the path of others Community College and Beyond José R. Del Real Viramontes, Marissa C. Vasquez, 2023-08-01 As the transfer disparity persists among Latina o x community college students and continues to widen for those seeking to complete their baccalaureate degree we asked ourselves three questions 1 How do Latina o x community college students navigate the transfer preparation and decision making process 2 Once at the university how do Latina o x transfer students negotiate their identities and lived experiences as they persist towards graduation and beyond And 3 What policies practices and programs at both two and four year institutions facilitate access persistence and completion for Latina o x community college transfer students These reflections prompted us to seek answers This is the first edited book to provide much needed theoretical and empirical insights on Latina o x students who enter postsecondary education through the community college Our book offers a comprehensive outlook on the pre and post transfer experiences of Latina o x students written by scholars and scholarpractitioners working in the field of higher education In addition we include specific sections that speak directly to policies practices and theory that address transfer pathways for Latina o x community college and transfer students Small Business Sourcebook Carol A.
