Chapter 2: The U.S. Economy: A Global View Solutions Manual

Learning Objectives for Chapter 2

After reading this chapter, you should know

LO 02-01. The relative size of the U.S. economy.

LO 02-02. How the U.S. output mix has changed over time.

LO 02-03. How the U.S. is able to produce so much output.

LO 02-04. How incomes are distributed in the United States and elsewhere.

Questions for Discussion

1. Americans already enjoy living standards that far exceed world averages. Do we have enough? Should we even try to produce more? (LO 02-01)

Answer: As long as people want more than they have, scarcity exists. If we are interested in increasing our standard of living, then we should consider producing more. Of course, one of the issues we face is that we often measure our standard of living by how much we consume. If, as a society, we decide that the quality of life is not measured by how much we consume, but rather how well we consume what we have, then perhaps we should not produce more. Instead it is conceivable that we can work less and enjoy life more, thus maximizing our total level of satisfaction.

2. Why is per capita GDP so much higher in the United States than in Mexico? (LO 02-03)
