Faded and Threadbare Historic Textiles and their Role in Houses Open to the Public Margaret Ponsonby,2016-04-15

Many historic houses that open to the public in England and Wales particularly those owned by the National Trust preserve their contents rather than restore them to a particular period The former owners of these houses often retained objects from various periods and this layering of history produces interiors that look aged and patinated Although the reason for this preservation and lack of fashionable renewable can be attributed to declining economic fortunes in the twentieth century there are many examples of families practising this method of homemaking over a much longer period Taking National Trust properties as its central focus this book examines three interlocking themes to examine the role of historic textiles Firstly it looks at houses with preserved contents together with the reasons for individual families choosing this lifestyle secondly the role of the National Trust as both guardian and interpreter of these houses and their collections and finally and most importantly the influence of textiles to contribute to the appearance of interiors and their physical attributes that carry historical resonances of the past The importance of preserved textiles in establishing the visual character of historic houses is a neglected area and therefore the prominence given to textiles in this project constitutes an original contribution to the study of these houses Drawing upon a range of primary sources including literature produced by the National Trust for their sites and documentary sources for the families and their houses such as diaries letters and household accounts the study takes a broad approach that will be of interest to all those with an interest in material culture heritage collecting studies and cultural history Russian Bishop's House, Sitka National Historical Park, Sitka, Alaska Katherine Menz,1989

Preserving Archives Helen Forde,Jonathan Rhys-Lewis,2013-03-23 A brand new and fully updated edition of this seminal work on archival preservation Access to archival material the documentary heritage of people all over the world that gives them their identity and ensures their rights is dependent on the survival of fragile materials paper parchment photographic materials audiovisual materials and most recently magnetic optical and increasingly digital formats The primary importance of such survival is widely acknowledged but sometimes overlooked in a rush to provide ever better means of access But without the basic material no services can be offered Preservation is at the heart of archival activity Archivists in all types of organizations face questions on how to plan a preservation strategy in less than perfect circumstances or deal with a sudden emergency This book considers the causes of threats to the basic material outlines the preservation options available and offers flexible solutions applicable in a variety of situations It offers a wide range of case studies and examples from international specialists This revised edition includes additional material on digital preservation and green building as well as a new chapter on the management and training of volunteers reflecting a key concern for many archival institutions Key topics are Understanding archival materials and their characteristics Managing digital preservation Archive buildings and their characteristics Safeguarding the building and its contents Managing archival storage Managing risks and avoiding disaster Creating and using surrogates Exhibiting archives Handling the records Managing a pest control programme Training and the use of volunteers Putting preservation into practice Readership Archivists librarians curators and enthusiasts trained and untrained in museums local studies centres and voluntary societies in need of good clear advice

The Housekeeper's Tale Tessa Boase,2014-05-19 Working as a housekeeper was one of the most prestigious jobs a nineteenth and early twentieth century woman could want and also one of the toughest A far cry from the Downton Abbey fiction the real life Mrs Hughes was up against capricious mistresses low pay no job security and gruelling physical labour Until now her story has never been told The Housekeeper's Tale reveals the personal sacrifices bitter disputes and driving ambition that shaped these women's careers Delving into secret diaries unpublished letters and the neglected service archives of our stately homes Tessa Boase tells the extraordinary stories of five working women who ran some of Britain's most prominent households There is Dorothy Doar Regency housekeeper for the obscenely wealthy 1st Duke and Duchess of Sutherland at Trentham Hall Staffordshire There is Sarah Wells a deaf and elderly Victorian in charge of Uppark West Sussex Ellen Penketh is Edwardian cook housekeeper at the sociable but impecunious Erddig Hall in the Welsh borders Hannah Mackenzie runs Wrest Park in Bedfordshire Britain's first country house war hospital bankrolled by playwright J M Barrie And there is Grace Higgins cook housekeeper to the Bloomsbury set at Charleston farmhouse in East Sussex for half a century an era defined by the Second World War Revelatory gripping and unexpectedly poignant The Housekeeper's Tale champions the invisible women who ran the English country house

Preventive Conservation for Historic House Museums Jane Merritt, Julie A. Reilly, 2010 Preventive Conservation for Historic House Museums is a primer on the preventive care practices that these unique sites need to slow the rate of deterioration and prevent damage and wear to the property and its collections It proposes a collaborative approach to preservation planning that is based on interdisciplinary research critical thinking and observation rather than rote maintenance schedules and everyday residential cleaning practices The authors recommend that sites have documents and plans in place that direct the intellectual and physical control of the collections and site

museums can be found in nearly every city in the United States and Canada These are the homes of the earliest settlers statesmen frontiersmen great writers artists architects and industrial magnates These are the places carefully saved and preserved that represent a cultural heritage Despite their popularity it is not uncommon to find museums that are in poor repair their collections neglected and their staffs grossly overworked Many are run by well meaning and hard working volunteers who have little or no professional training Often they survive on shoestring budgets and are able to present only limited programs Serving both as a hands on guide and reference this book examines these problems offering practical advice and solutions which can be easily implemented Its useful lessons include governance where to find help care of collections conservation security and interpretation all designed to increase the professionalism of the historic house museum
