Global Value Chains and Global Production Networks Jeffrey Neilson, Bill Pritchard, Henry Yeung Wai-Chung, 2017-10-02 The global economic system is experiencing a profound period of rapid change The emergence of globalised production and distribution systems which bring together diverse constellations of economic actors through a complex regime of global corporate governance state regulation and new international divisions of labour demands corresponding and innovative explanatory models Global value chains GVCs and global production networks GPNs have been particularly useful as conceptual frameworks for understanding the global market engagement of firms regions and nations This book examines the rise of GVCs and GPNs as dominant features of the international political economy It brings together leading thinkers in the field and sets out new directions for future scholarship in understanding the contemporary global economic system In doing so this book makes a significant contribution to our understanding of the international political economy and the global economic system in the post Washington Consensus era of contemporary capitalism This book was published as a special issue of the Review of International Political Economy

Low Carbon Development Frauke Urban, Johan Nordensvard, 2013-07-18 Low Carbon Development Key Issues is the first comprehensive textbook to address the interface between international development and climate change in a carbon constrained world It discusses the key conceptual empirical and policy related issues of low carbon development and takes an international and interdisciplinary approach to the subject by drawing on insights from across the natural sciences and social sciences whilst embedding the discussion in a global context The first part explores the concept of low carbon development and explains the need for low carbon development in a carbon constrained world The book then discusses the key issues of socio economic political and technological nature for low carbon development exploring topics such as the political economy social justice financing and carbon markets and technologies and innovation for low carbon development This is followed by key issues for low carbon development in policy and practice which is presented based on cross cutting issues such as low carbon energy

forestry agriculture and transportation Afterwards practical case studies are discussed from low carbon development in low income countries in Africa middle income countries in Asia and Latin America and high income countries in Europe and North America Written by an international team of leading academics and practitioners in the field of low carbon development this book is essential reading for students academics professionals and policy makers interested in the fields of low carbon development climate change mitigation climate policy climate change and development global environmental change and environment and development Institutional Challenges to Intermodal Transport and Logistics Jason Monios,2016-05-23 While the operational realities of intermodal transport are relatively well known the institutional challenges are less well understood This book provides an overview of intermodal transport and logistics including the policy background emerging industry trends and academic approaches Establishing the three key features of intermodal transport geography as intermodal terminals inland logistics and hinterland corridors Jason Monios takes an institutional approach to understanding the difficulties of successful intermodal transport and logistics Key areas of investigation include the policy and planning background the roles of public and private stakeholders and the identification of emerging strategy conflicts Substantial empirical content situates the theoretical and practical issues in real world examples via three detailed case study chapters covering the USA UK and Europe making the book useful to students as well as practitioners desiring an understanding of how intermodal transport and logistics work in practice The identified challenges to intermodal transport and logistics are used to demonstrate how competing port and inland strategies can inhibit the necessary processes of integration required to underpin successful intermodal transport The book concludes with a look at the future of institutional adaptation that may enhance the capacity of freight actors to engage with intermodal transport developments

Territorial Cohesion in Rural Europe Andrew Copus,Philomena de Lima,2014-08-13 This book reflects on how the economies social characteristics ways of life and global relationships of rural areas of Europe have changed in recent years This reveals a need to refresh the concepts we use to understand measure and describe rural communities and their development potential This book argues that Europe has outgrown many of the stereotypes usually associated with it with substantial implications for European Rural Policy Rural structural change and its evolving geography are portrayed through regional typologies and the concept of the New Rural Economy Demographic change migration business networks and agricultural restructuring are each explored in greater detail Implications for equality and social exclusion and recent developments in the field of governance are also considered Despite being a subject of active debate interventions in the fields of rural and regional development have failed to adapt to changing realities and have become increasingly polarized This book argues that rural regional policy needs to evolve in order to address the current complex reality partially reformulating territorial or place based approaches and the New Rural Paradigm following a set of principles termed Rural Cohesion Policy The Routledge Handbook on Spaces of Urban Politics Kevin Ward,Andrew E. G. Jonas,Byron Miller, David Wilson, 2018-04-17 The Routledge Handbook on Spaces of Urban Politics provides a comprehensive statement and reference point for urban politics. The scope of this handbook's coverage and contributions engages with and reflects upon the most important innovative and recent critical developments to the interdisciplinary field of urban politics drawing upon a range of examples from within and across the Global North and Global South. This handbook is organized into nine interrelated sections with an introductory chapter setting out the rationale, aims and structure of the Handbook and short introductory commentaries at the beginning of each part. It questions the eliding of urban politics into the politics of the city, reconsidering the usefulness of the distinction between old and new urban politics, considering issues of class, gender, race and the ways in which they intersect, appear and reappear in matters of urban politics, how best to theorize the roles of capital, the state and other actors such as social movements in the production of the city and finally issues of doing urban political research. The various chapters explore the issues of urban politics of economic development, environment and nature in the city, governance and planning, the politics of labour as well as living spaces. The concluding sections of the Handbook examine the politics over alternative visions of cities of the future and provide concluding discussions and reflections particularly on the futures for urban politics in an increasingly global and multidisciplinary context. With over forty-five contributions from leading international scholars in the field, this handbook provides critical reviews and appraisals of current conceptual and theoretical approaches and future developments in urban politics. It is a key reference to all researchers and policy makers with an interest in urban politics.

A Student's Introduction to Geographical Thought

Pauline Couper, 2014-12-01 This is a busting text, an enormously accessible account of the key philosophical and theoretical ideas that have informed geographical research. It makes abstract ideas explicit and clearly connects them with real practices of geographical research and knowledge. Written with flair and passion, A Student's Introduction to Geographical Thought explains the key ideas: scientific realism, anti-realism and idealism, positivism, critical rationalism, Marxism and critical realism, social constructionism and feminism, phenomenology and post-phenomenology, postmodernism and post-structuralism, complexity, moral philosophy. It uses examples that address both physical geography and human geography. Use a familiar and real-world example, the beach, as an entry point to basic questions of philosophy, returning to this to illustrate and to explain the links between philosophy, theory and methodology. All chapters end with summaries and sources of further reading, a glossary explaining key terms, exercises with commentaries and web resources of key articles from the journals Progress in Human Geography and Progress in Physical Geography. A Student's Introduction to Geographical Thought is a completely accessible student A-Z of theory and practice for both human and physical geography.

East and West in Comparative Education Soong Hee Han, Peter Jarvis, 2017-10-02 Sparked by global capitalism's demand for new knowledge and new commodities as well as new logistical systems to deliver them the nature of education has changed significantly Universities in striving to become a part of this knowledge society have focused on responding to these demands at the expense of the humanities and social sciences The dominance of this way of thinking primarily a product of Western educational thought has clearly affected approaches to education in the East The originalities authenticities and unique perspectives of the East have failed to get enough attention subsumed by the focus on science and technology However many education systems are still endeavouring to capture some of the indigenous and authentic culture of their home countries incorporating national cultural ideals even in subjects with a primarily vocational focus Although the drive for scientific knowledge has led to a degree of standardisation and convergence cultural differences still play a role in the education theory and policy of different countries This book examines these cultural differences between different East Asian and South Asian countries with chapters ranging from historical educational analysis to contemporary re interpretations of the construction of society and education in the East This book was originally published as a special issue of Comparative Education

Drivetime Lynne Pearce, 2016-07-07 Engages literary texts in order to theorise the distinctive cognitive and affective experiences of driving What sorts of things do we think about when we're driving or being driven in a car Drivetime seeks to answer this question by drawing upon a rich archive of British and American texts from the motoring century 1900-2000 paying particular attention to the way in which the practice of driving shapes and structures our thinking While recent sociological and psychological research has helped explain how drivers are able to think about other things while performing such a complex task little attention has as yet been paid to the form these cognitive and affective journeys take Pearce uses her close readings of literary texts ranging from early twentieth century motoring periodicals Modernist and inter war fiction American road trip classics and autobiography in order to model different types of driving event and by extension the car's use as a means of phenomenological encounter escape from memory meditation problem solving and daydreaming Key Features Brings Humanities based perspectives to

Incomplete Streets Stephen Zavestoski, Julian Agyeman, 2014-08-27 The Complete Streets concept and movement in urban planning and policy has been hailed by many as a revolution that aims to challenge the auto normative paradigm by reversing the broader effects of an urban form shaped by the logic of keeping automobiles moving. By enabling safe access for all users, Complete Streets promise to make cities more walkable and livable and at the same time more sustainable. This book problematizes the Complete Streets concept by suggesting that streets should not be thought of as merely physical spaces but as symbolic and social spaces. When important social and symbolic narratives are missing from the discourse and practice of Complete Streets, what actually results are incomplete streets. The volume questions whether the ways in which complete streets narratives, policies, plans, and efforts are envisioned and implemented might be systematically reproducing many of the urban spatial and social inequalities and injustices that have characterized cities for the last century or more. From critiques of a mobility bias rooted in the neoliberal foundations of the Complete Streets concept to concerns about resulting environmental gentrification, the chapters in Incomplete Streets variously call for planning processes that give voice to the historically marginalized and more broadly that approach streets as dynamic, fluid, and public social places. This interdisciplinary book is aimed at students, researchers, and professionals in the fields of urban geography, environmental studies, urban planning, and policy, transportation planning, and urban sociology.

Geographies of Mobility Mei-Po Kwan, Tim Schwanen, 2018-10-11 This book seeks to bring together different philosophical, theoretical, and methodological approaches to the study of human mobility within the discipline of geography. With five thematic sections conceptualizing and analyzing mobility inequalities, mobility politics, mobility decentering, mobility and qualifying abstraction, and 27 substantive chapters by leading researchers in the field, it provides a comprehensive overview of the latest thinking about human mobility and related issues. The contributors discuss mobility issues as diverse as everyday mobilities of young people, migrants, and refugees, and sex workers; the relationships between citizenship and mobility; and the potential and pitfalls of big data for understanding mobility. This, coupled with a broad international focus, means that Geographies of Mobility will not only encourage and enrich dialogue on a theme that is of major importance to varied geographic research communities but will also be of great interest to students and researchers across the wider social sciences. This book was originally published as a special issue of Annals of the American Association of Geographers.

The Financialisation of Power Sarah Bracking, 2016-05-05 The financial crash of 2008 led people all over the world to ask how far financiers are in control of our lives. To what extent does what they do with our money affect our everyday lives? This book asks whether the crisis and subsequent use of public subsidies to help the international economy recover was a unique event or a symptom of a wider malaise where financiers have effectively usurped the power of governments and are running the political economy themselves. The Financialisation of Power in Africa argues that growth is not always a good thing. The development of more derivatives and faster financial exchanges are draining businesses of investment capital rather than serving to supply it. Applying financial logic does not save nature or protect biodiversity and other species. This book outlines the concept of financialisation and how it has been used in various ways to explain the post-2008 crisis and global political economy. There is a particular focus on these issues in reference to Africa which has a particular dependence on international money It takes the perspective of the modern state exploring how the political economy of development actually works in relation to African governance This book is of interest to students of international development and political economy and is a key source for policy makers interested in African studies and economic development
