Multiply and Divide Fractions

Teaching Skill 47

Objective Multiply and divide fractions.

Review with students the steps for multiplying fractions. Point out that it is a good idea to write fraction multiplication problems horizontally, rather than vertically, to keep the numerators and the denominators lined up.

Remind students that simplest form means no common factors in the numerator and denominator and no improper fractions. Review with students how to rewrite an improper fraction as a mixed number.

Work through the multiplication example.

Next review the steps for dividing fractions. Point out that the only difference between multiplying and dividing is Step 1. Ask:

How do you find the reciprocal of a fraction? (Invert or “flip” it) How do you find the reciprocal of a whole number? (Write the whole number as a fraction with a denominator of 1 and then invert it.)

Work through the division example and have students complete the practice exercises.

PRACTICE ON YOUR OWN

In exercises 1–8, students multiply and divide fractions.

CHECK

Determine that students know how to multiply and divide fractions.

Students who successfully complete the Practice on Your Own and Check are ready to move on to the next skill.

COMMON ERRORS

Students may forget to use the reciprocal when dividing.

Students who made more than 2 errors in the Practice on Your Own, or who were not successful in the Check section, may benefit from the Alternative Teaching Strategy.

Alternative Teaching Strategy

Objective Use modeling to multiply fractions.

Some students may benefit from being able to visualize multiplication.

Tell students they are going to practice multiplying fractions using models. Write the following problem on the board:

$$\frac{3}{4} \times \frac{5}{7}$$

Instruct students to draw a rectangle and divide it into 4 rows of equal height. Explain that each row represents one-fourth. Have students shade 3 of the 4 rows to represent three-fourths.

Next instruct students to divide the rectangle into 7 columns of equal width. Ask: Why 7 columns? (to represent sevenths) How many columns should you shade? (5) Encourage students to shade differently (dots, diagonal lines, etc.) than before.

Ask: How many small rectangles are there in the diagram? (28) How many of the rectangles have both types of shading? (15) Explain to students that the product of the two fractions is

$$\frac{\# \text{ with both shadings}}{\text{total \#}} = \frac{15}{28}$$

Have students repeat this exercise to find the products below. Remind them to simplify where appropriate.

$$\frac{5}{9} \times \frac{1}{4}, \frac{5}{6} \times \frac{7}{8}, \frac{2}{5} \times \frac{3}{4}, \frac{4}{5} \times \frac{1}{6}, \text{ and } \frac{2}{3} \times \frac{5}{8}$$

$$(\frac{5}{36}, \frac{35}{48}, \frac{3}{10}, \frac{2}{15}, \text{ and } \frac{5}{12})$$
