Joan Holt,2017-03-06 The global trade of aquatic organisms for home and public aquariums along with associated equipment and accessories has become a multi billion dollar industry Aquaculture of marine ornamental species still in its infancy is recognized as a viable alternative to wild collection as it can supplement or replace the supply of wild caught specimens and potentially help recover natural populations through restocking This book collects into a single work the most up to date information currently available on the aquaculture of marine ornamental species It includes the contributions of more than 50 leading scientists and experts on different topics relevant for the aquaculture of the most emblematic groups of organisms traded for reef aquariums From clownfish to angelfish tangs and seahorses as well as corals anemones shrimps giant clams and several other reef organisms all issues related with the husbandry breeding and trade are addressed with explanatory schemes and illustrations being used to help in understanding the most complex topics addressed Marine Ornamental Species Aquaculture is a key reference for scientists and academics in research institutes and universities public and private aquaria as well as for hobbyists business oriented perspective highlighting the risks and opportunities of commercial scale aquaculture of marine ornamentals Reproductive Sciences in Animal Conservation Pierre Comizzoli, Janine L. Brown, William V. Holt, 2019-08-30 This second edition emphasizes the environmental impact on reproduction with updated chapters throughout as well as complete new chapters on species such as sharks and rays This is a wide ranging book that will be of relevance to anyone involved in species conservation and provides critical perspectives on the real utility of current and emerging reproductive sciences Understanding reproductive biology is centrally important to the way many of the world's conservation problems should be tackled Currently the extinction problem is huge with up to 30% of the world's fauna being expected to disappear in the next 50 years Nevertheless it has been estimated that the global population of animals in zoos encompasses 12 000 15 000 species and we anticipate that every effort will be made to preserve these species for as long as possible minimizing inbreeding effects and providing the best welfare standards available Even if the reproductive biology community cannot solve the global biodiversity crisis for all wild species we should do our best to maintain important captive populations Reproductive biology in this context is much more than the development of techniques for helping with too little or too much breeding While some of the relevant techniques are useful for individual species that society might target for a variety of reasons whether nationalistic cultural or practical technical developments have to be backed up by thorough biological understanding of the background behind the problems Advances in Fisheries Science Andrew I. L. Payne, John Cotter, Ted Potter, 2009-01-22 This timely book brings readers up to date on the wide range of advances made in fisheries science since the publication in 1957 of On the Dynamics of Exploited Fish Populations Beverton and Holt regarded by many fisheries scientists as one of the most important books on fisheries yet published Traditional fishery subjects covered include historic declines and changes in fishing fleets fisheries management and stock assessments data poor situations simulation and modelling of fished stocks fisheries economics assessing reproductive potential and dispersal of larvae fisheries for sharks and rays and use of marine technology Additionally related subjects of increasing importance now that ecological approaches to management are coming to the fore are presented They include benthic ecology ecosystem changes linked to fishing life history theory the effects of chemicals on fish reproduction and use of sounds in the sea by marine life Several chapters offer stimulating philosophical discussion of the many controversial areas still existing This significant book edited by Andy Payne John Cotter and Ted Potter and containing contributions by world renowned fisheries scientists including many based at Cefas where Beverton and Holt's original work was carried out is an essential purchase for fisheries managers and scientists fish biologists marine scientists and ecologists Libraries in all universities and research establishments where fisheries and biological sciences are studied and taught are likely to need copies of this landmark publication
