Practice of Parenting describes the nuts and bolts of parenting as well as the promotion of positive parenting practices. Parents meet the biological, physical, and health requirements of children. Parents interact with children socially. Parents stimulate children to engage and understand the environment and to enter the world of learning. Parents provision, organize, and arrange their children's home and local environments and the media to which children are exposed. Parents also manage child development vis-à-vis childcare, school, the circles of medicine and law, as well as other social institutions through their active citizenship. The chapters in Part I on Practical Parenting review the ethics of parenting, parenting and the development of children's self-regulation, discipline, prosocial and moral development, and resilience, as well as children's language, play, cognitive and academic achievement, and children's peer relationships. The chapters in Part II on Parents and Social Institutions explore parents and their children's childcare activities, media, schools, and healthcare, and examine relations between parenthood and the law, public policy, and religion and spirituality.
