Simon, Mojgan Behmand, Thomas Burke, 2015 Big History is a new field on a grand scale it tells the story of the universe over time through a diverse range of disciplines that spans cosmology physics chemistry astronomy geology evolutionary biology anthropology and archaeology thereby reconciling traditional human history with environmental geography and natural history Weaving the myriad threads of evidence based human knowledge into a master narrative that stretches from the beginning of the universe to the present the Big History framework helps students make sense of their studies in all disciplines by illuminating the structures that underlie the universe and the connections among them Teaching Big History is a powerful analytic and pedagogical resource and serves as a comprehensive guide for teaching Big History as well for sharing ideas about the subject and planning a curriculum around it Readers are also given helpful advice about the administrative and organizational challenges of instituting a general education program constructed around Big History The book includes teaching materials examples and detailed sample exercises This book is also an engaging first hand account of how a group of professors built an entire Big History general education curriculum for first year students demonstrating how this thoughtful integration of disciplines exemplifies liberal education at its best and illustrating how teaching and learning this incredible story can be transformative for professors and students alike

Evolution, Morality and the Fabric of Society R. Paul Thompson, 2022-05-19 Recent interest in the evolution of the social contract is extended by providing a thoroughly naturalistic evolutionary account of the biological underpinnings of a social contract theory of morality This social contract theory of morality contractualism provides an evolutionary justification of the primacy of a moral principle of maximisation of the opportunities for evolutionary reproductive success ERS where maximising opportunities does not entail an obligation on individuals to choose to maximise their ERS From that primary principle the moral principles of inclusion individual sovereignty liberty and equality can be derived The implications of these principles within contractevolism are explored through an examination of patriarchy individual sovereignty and copulatory choices and overpopulation and extinction Contractevolism is grounded in evolutionary dynamics that resulted in humans and human societies The most important behavioural consequences of evolution to contractevolism are reciprocity cooperation empathy and the most important cognitive consequences are reason and behavioural modification

Burr,2025-09-24 This global and comparative history examines the evolution of human societies over many millennia illuminating patterns within societies today It shows how the original human groups bands of hunter gatherers grew over time into larger and more complex societies through three major transformations settlement and domestication the development of complexity and inequality and industrial globalization The book describes how each of these major changes in economy and political structure created new types of societies villages chiefdoms and other complex societies agrarian states and empires and today s global social system It therefore shows how different types of societies came to co exist and interact on Earth The book compares societies along seven aspects their economies political systems cultural patterns inequalities family structures demographics and environmental patterns It shows that even societies that shared similar basic features still exhibited great variety The comparative framework presented here helps readers develop a conceptual vocabulary for understanding societies the larger social systems within which they exist and the major social changes that led to this continuing expansion
