Beer, 2014-08-21 A full account of Lawrence ranging from his talent as a young writer to the continuing genius of his later work and concentrating on his exceptionally acute powers of observation both human and natural Torn by War Mary Adelia Byers, 2013-10-08 The Civil War divided the nation communities and families. The town of Batesville Arkansas found itself occupied three times by the Union army. This compelling book gives a unique perspective on the war's western edge through the diary of Mary Adelia Byers 1847-1918 who began recording her thoughts and observations during the Union occupation of Batesville in 1862. Only fifteen when she starts her diary, Mary is beyond her years in maturity as revealed by her acute observations of the world around her. At the same time she appears very much a child of her era. Having lost her father at a young age, she and her family depend on the financial support of her Uncle William, a slaveowner and Confederate sympathizer. Through Mary's eyes we are given surprising insights into local society during a national crisis. On the one hand we see her flirting with Confederate soldiers in the Batesville town square and on the other facing the grim reality of war by setting up through the night with dying soldiers. Her journal ends in March 1865, shortly before the war comes to a close. Torn by War reveals the conflicts faced by an agricultural social elite economically dependent on slavery but situated on the fringes of the conflict between North and South. On a more personal level, it also shows how resilient and perceptive young people can be during times of crisis. Enhanced by extensive photographs, maps, and informative annotation, the volume is a valuable contribution to the growing body of literature on civilian life during the Civil War. Los Angeles Magazine, 1997-12 Los Angeles Magazine is a regional magazine of national stature. Our combination of award-winning feature writing, investigative reporting, service journalism, and design covers the people, lifestyle, culture, entertainment, fashion, art, and architecture and news that define Southern California. Started in the spring of 1961, Los Angeles Magazine has been addressing the needs and interests of our region for 48 years. The magazine continues to be the definitive resource for an affluent population that is intensely interested in a lifestyle that is uniquely Southern Californian. Harry Beaves, 2018-01-30 The Army is much more than a job It is a way of life often boring and frustrating frequently difficult and dangerous but by far great fun with energetic well motivated people and lifelong friendships Down Among the Weeds is one such story detailing Harry Beaves' journey from joining the Royal Military Academy Sandhurst in 1966 to the consequences of retiring from Army life and the hardships he had to conquer With humour the author recalls how dull garrison life could be and how he and his contemporaries channelled their energies into escapades which often crossed the blurred line between mischief and trouble The narrative flips dramatically from light to dark when his regiment was deployed to Northern Ireland at a time when IRA activity is generally reckoned to have been at its most intense Dangerous and exciting but rewarding it changed Harry's life and his subsequent postings were most often with Commando Forces or in Adventurous Training Harry left the Army in 2000 Without the invisible support network of military life the effects of his experiences in Belfast in 1972 came crashing to the fore and brought on post traumatic stress Down Among the Weeds recounts with candour the horror of anxiety and depression of PTSD and the struggles to overcome them
