A History of Pew Renting in the Church of England J.C. Bennett, 2024-05-26 This book is a comprehensive study of the history of pew renting in the church of England from the first known rented sittings in the fifteenth century to the system's collapse in the twentieth. The book's significance is partly its originality: no book and very few articles or portions of books have appeared solely on pew renting since the nineteenth century and even those of that time were not histories; they were polemical works that generally attacked pew renting on religious grounds. This work encompasses the distinction between formal letting of seats which involved the methodical letting of sittings by church authorities with set rents and informal pew letting in which congregants tipped pew openers and sidesmen for favourable seats for one service. It also details the concomitant difficulties and hindrances encountered by churches and renters, the means of setting the rents and collecting the proceeds, the types of congregants who rented pews, the controversy the practice provoked and the deception and bending and sometimes outright breaking of the applicable law.

Risky Communications and Precarity in London's Shared Housing Hasret Saygı, 2025-08-25 This book examines the experiences of single professionals living in shared housing in London, focusing on how language communication and social inequalities shape these living arrangements. It frames shared housing not only as an economic condition but also as a communicative social and identity-laden experience. Drawing on the discourse analysis of interviews conducted with London's millennials sharing a house with strangers, the book introduces a language socialisation framework to illustrate how they learn to become competent housemates. It explores how individuals internalise unspoken norms, manage routines and negotiate relationships within multilingual multicultural households. The book also highlights what it means to be single and living in London today, particularly in the context of housing. It examines how house sharers navigate spatial and social boundaries and experience precarity, especially through the lenses of migration, ethnicity and linguistic background. This book will appeal to scholars in sociolinguistics, anthropology, urban studies, human geography and architecture.
