Matric Rewrite Colleges In Durban Kn:

Doctors in a Divided Society Mignon Breier, Angelique Wildschut, 2006 Many of the goals of South Africa's new democracy depend on the production of professionals who have not only the knowledge and skills to make our country globally competitive but also a commitment to working and living here. Despite numerous reforms the South African health system ten years into democracy remains divided: first world private care that ranks with middle income countries internationally at the one end and at the other extreme in the rural public sector in particular conditions that are superior only to the poorest of African countries. Much work has been done to change medical school curricula in line with the primary health care focus of government policy and international trends towards problem based learning. The student profile in medical schools is now not only more representative of the demographics of South Africa but also reveals a significant increase in female students. Whether these students will stay in the country after graduating and serve where they are needed most remains to be seen. Publisher's website

Francis, 2022-08-19 Offering a vital critical contribution to debates on gender sexuality and schooling in South Africa this book highlights how South African educational practices discourses and structures normalize cisheteronormativity along with how these are resisted within schools and through contemporary forms of activism. Not only does it add fresh insights to the existing research literature on gender sexualities and schooling it also underscores the valuable contributions of queer and transgender social movements which have made influential legislative teaching learning and support contributions to education. Drawing on ethnographic research with queer and transgender activists teachers school managers parents and school attending youth the book provides everyday real life quotes and observations offering a deeply critical contribution to the debates on gender and sexualities education and activism. Using spatial and affect theories it troubles the assumptions that frame this field of research to make a novel contribution to the national and international literature and research. The book provides research based insights for thinking about and calls for informed action to challenging cisheteronormativity within and beyond schools

Multilingualism in a Multicultural Context Guus Extra, 1998 From a historical and cultural point of view South Africa and Western Europe have much in common. The sociolinguistic commonalities are clearly evident in the status and use of English and Afrikaans both of which have their roots in an intricate European migration history. This volume aims at capturing new facts about multilingualism in these two multicultural contexts by means of case studies on dominant and dominated languages in two regions in particular i.e. KwaZulu Natal in South Africa and the Netherlands in Western Europe. Through the exploration of local realities offered in this volume the similarities and differences between the two geopolitical contexts become abundantly clear. This should lay the foundation for the comparative work that is eventually envisaged
