Schools Making a Difference Martin Thrupp, 1999-05-16 Does an effective school really come about through the actions of teachers and school leaders or does it also require an advantaged student intake? This question reflects a longstanding research debate about whether or not the social class mix of a school's student intake has much effect on individual achievement. Schools Making a Difference Let's Be Realistic presents new evidence which suggests that school mix is likely to be important because of the way many school processes are deeply influenced by student intake characteristics. Low socioeconomic schools face numerous intake-related constraints which make them highly resistant to improvement efforts. By suggesting that failing schools are often overwhelmed rather than ineffective, this book provides a sympathetic reappraisal of the performance of teachers and school leaders in such schools. It also offers a critical response to the often unrealistic claims of the school effectiveness and school improvement movement and a fresh critique of market reforms in education.

The Universal Tutor London gen. corresp. coll., 1894

New Scientist, 1993

Eye of the Monkey Krisztina Tóth, 2025-10-14 A doctor-patient love affair goes awry in this near-future dystopian novel, the first by the award-winning Hungarian writer to be translated into English. Like peering into the abyss and finding your consciousness forever altered, you cannot escape this book; you already hear its thunder. Elfriede Jelinek, winner of the Nobel Prize in Literature, Eye of the Monkey begins in the wake of a devastating civil war that led to the formation of the United Regency, an autocracy in an unnamed European country. The ravages of war are sweeping, and the populace has been divided into segregated zones where the well-off are under mass surveillance and the poor are phantom presences confined and ghettoized. On the verge of a nervous breakdown after being followed by a young man for weeks, Giselle, a history professor at the New University, seeks the help of Dr. Mihály Kreutzer, a psychiatrist who is navigating divorce and the recent death of his mother. They soon begin a torrid love affair, but everything is not what it seems. As Giselle begins to unpack her family history and the possible root of her psychological crisis, Dr. Kreutzer, who has ties to some of the most powerful people in the country, possesses ulterior motives of his own. In this deftly woven polyphonic and dystopian novel full of twists, turns, and treachery, we plumb the depths of a fractured, disturbed, and isolated society as well as the underbelly of social perversions such as a society produces. In this intricate web of stories, within stories, reveal the complicated lives of women and men who struggle to negotiate the networks of power and poverty that have shaped their lives and their relationships to one another.
