Paper 1 Example (3 SAQs & 1 ERQ)

Answer all questions in this section. Marks will be awarded for focused answers supported by relevant knowledge and study.

1. Describe neuroplasticity, with reference to one study. [9 marks]

Neuroplasticity is the brain's ability to change in response to environmental demands. This occurs through neuronal unmasking and neural pruning. Neuronal unmasking is when the brain activates dormant neurons and strengthens them through practice, which increases neuronal density in the areas of the brain with recent patterns of activity. Long-term potentiation is the term used for the strengthening of neural networks through recent patterns of activity in specific regions of the brain that cause a long-lasting increase in signal transmission in those regions and this explains how the brain structure changes as a result of environmental demands. However, a lack of activity in neural networks leads to the weakening and the elimination of these networks which is known as neural pruning. Many studies have investigated neuroplasticity in action, namely Maguire et al. (2000) which investigated whether structural changes were evident in the brains of people with extensive experience in spatial navigation.

The study compared MRI scans of 16 right-handed male taxi drivers in London that have all been driving for at least 1.5 years to the MRI scans of 50 right-handed males from the London Hospital who were not taxi drivers. The mean age did not differ between the experimental group and the control group. They found that the taxi drivers had increased grey matter in the hippocampal areas as compared to the control group which suggests that the hippocampus plays a role in spatial navigation. Furthermore, they found that the taxi drivers had larger posterior hippocampi than the control group, whilst the control group had larger anterior hippocampus than the taxi drivers. This demonstrates long-term potentiation occurring in the taxi drivers' posterior hippocampi. Since, the taxi drivers use their spatial navigation skills frequently, the recent activity in the posterior hippocampus leads to the strengthening of the neural networks in that region which increases the neural density and is evident through the larger volume of the posterior hippocampus in the taxi drivers. Moreover, a positive correlation between the number of years driving and the volume of the posterior hippocampus was discovered, which creates a direct link between increased use of spatial navigation skills and the volume of that region. This further demonstrates the effects of long-term potentiation on brain structure and, therefore, the relationship between brain structure and environmental demands. They concluded that the structural changes were evident in the brains of the taxi drivers, with extensive experience in spatial navigation and the findings of this study act as evidence for neuroplasticity as the changes in the volume of the posterior hippocampus (a change in the structure of the brain) is shown to be impacted by the experience in spatial navigation (the environmental demand).

Feedback:

Excellent links made.

You described two specific parts of neuroplasticity, but not what it is in general.

From Is to Ought: The Place of Normative Models in the Study of Human Thought Shira Elqayam, David E. Over, 2016-08-12 In the study of human thinking two main research questions can be asked Descriptive Q What is human thinking like Normative Q What ought human thinking be like For decades these two questions have dominated the field and the relationship between them generated many a controversy Empirical normativist approaches regard the answers to these questions as positively correlated in essence human thinking is what it ought to be although what counts as the ought standard is moot In contemporary theories of reasoning and decision making this is often associated with a Panglossian framework an adaptationist approach which regards human thinking as a priori rational In contrast prescriptive normativism sees the answers to these two questions as negatively correlated Normative models are still relevant to human thought but human behaviour deviates from them quite markedly with the invited conclusion that humans are often irrational Prescriptive normativism often results in a Meliorist agenda which sees rationality as amenable to education Both empirical and prescriptive normativism can be contrasted with a descriptivist framework for psychology of human thinking Following Hume's strict divide between the is and the ought descriptivism regards the descriptive and normative research questions as uncorrelated or dissociated with only the former question suitable for psychological study of human behaviour This basic division carries over to the relation between normative ought rationality based on conforming to normative standards and instrumental is rationality based on achieving one's goals Descriptivist approaches regard the two as dissociated whereas normativist approaches tend to see them as closely linked with normative arguments defining and justifying instrumental rationality This research topic brings together diverse contributions to the continuing debate Featuring contributions from leading researchers in the field the e book covers a wide range of subjects arranged by six sections The standard picture Normativist perspectives In defence of soft normativism Exploring normative models Descriptivist perspectives Evolutionary and ecological accounts Empirical reports With a total of some 24 articles from 55 authors this comprehensive treatment includes theoretical analyses meta theoretical critiques commentaries and a range of empirical reports The contents of the Research Topic should appeal to psychologists linguists philosophers and cognitive scientists with research interests in a wide range of domains from language through reasoning judgment and decision making and moral judgment to epistemology and theory of mind philosophical logic and meta ethics

Psychology of a Superpower Christopher Fettweis, 2018-05-15 With the collapse of the Soviet Union the United States was left as the world's sole superpower which was the dawn of an international order known as unipolarity The ramifications of imbalanced power extend around the globe including the country at the center What has the sudden realization that it stands alone atop the international hierarchy done to the United States In Psychology of a Superpower Christopher J Fettweis examines how unipolarity affects the way U S leaders conceive of their role make strategy and perceive America s place in the world Combining security strategy and psychology Fettweis investigates how the idea of being number one affects the decision making of America s foreign policy elite He examines the role the United States plays in providing global common goods such as peace and security the effect of the Cold War s end on nuclear weapon strategy and policy the psychological consequences of unbalanced power and the grand strategies that have emerged in unipolarity Drawing on psychology s insights into the psychological and behavioral consequences of unchecked power Fettweis brings new insight to political science s policy analysis toolkit He also considers the prospect of the end of unipolarity offering a challenge to widely held perceptions of American indispensability and asking whether the unipolar moment is worth trying to save Psychology of a Superpower is a provocative rethinking of the risks and opportunities of the global position of the United States with significant consequences for U S strategy character and identity

Contemporary Indonesian Fashion Alessandra Lopez y Royo, 2019-10-31 Indonesian fashion has undergone a period of rapid growth over the last three decades This book explores how through years of social political and cultural upheaval the country s fashion has moved away from colonial fashion and national dress to claim its own distinct identity as contemporary fashion in a global world With specific reference to women s wear Contemporary Indonesian Fashion explores the diversity and complexity of the country s sartorial offerings which weave together local textile traditions like batik and ikat making with contemporary narratives The book questions concepts of tradition and modernity in the developing world taking stock of the elite consumption of luxury brands and the large scale manufacturing of fast fashion and introduces us to the rise of new trends such as busana muslim or modest wear creating a portrait of a vibrant and growing national and increasingly international industry Exploring clothing in shopping malls on the catwalk in magazines and online the book examines how Indonesian fashion is made presented and consumed combining research in Indonesia with analysis and personal reflection Contemporary Indonesian Fashion ultimately questions the deeply entrenched eurocentrism of global fashion simultaneously interrogating current homogenizing beauty and body image discourses posited as universal by pointing to absences silences and erasures as reflected by contemporary Indonesian fashion hence the looking glass of the title Aptly illustrated the book offers a new perspective on a rapidly developing new fashion capital Jakarta

Psychology in Action Karen Huffman, Karen Dowdell, Catherine Ashley Sanderson, 2017 Revised edition of Psychology in action 2015 Israel's Colonial Project in Palestine Elia Zureik, 2015-11-19 Colonialism has three foundational concerns violence territory and population control all of which rest on racist discourse and practice Placing the Zionist project in Israel Palestine within the context of settler colonialism reveals strategies and goals behind the region s rules of governance that have included violence repressive state laws and racialized forms of surveillance In Israel s Colonial Project in Palestine Brutal Pursuit Elia Zureik revisits and reworks fundamental ideas that informed his first work on colonialism and Palestine three decades ago Focusing on the means of control that are at the centre of Israel's actions toward Palestine this book applies Michel Foucault's work on biopolitics to colonialism and to the situation in Israel Palestine in particular It reveals how racism plays a central role in colonialism and biopolitics and how surveillance in all its forms becomes the indispensable tool of governance It goes on to analyse territoriality in light of biopolitics with the dispossession of indigenous people and population transfer advancing the state's agenda and justified as in the interests of national security The book incorporates sociological historical and postcolonial studies into an informed and original examination of the Zionist project in Palestine from the establishment of Israel through to the actions and decisions of the present day Israeli government Providing new perspectives on settler colonialism informed by Foucault's theory and with particular focus on the role played by state surveillance in controlling the Palestinian population this book is a valuable resource for students and scholars interested in the Arab Israeli Conflict and Colonialism
