The World-Literary System and the Atlantic Sorcha Gunne, Neil Lazarus, 2020-12-30 The World Literary System and the Atlantic grapples with key questions about how American studies and the Atlantic region in general engages with new considerations of literary comparativism international literary space and the world literary system The edited collection furthers these discussions by placing them into a relationship with the theory of combined and uneven development a theory that has a long pedigree in Marxist sociology and political economy and that continues to stimulate debate across the social sciences but whose implications for culture have received less attention Drawing on the comparative modes concepts and methods being developed in the new world literary studies the essays cover a diverse range of topics such as the periodization of world literature racism and the world system singular modernity critical realism commodity frontiers semi peripherality and world ecology The chapters in this book were originally published in the journal Atlantic Studies Arctic governance Elana Wilson Rowe, 2018-06-08 This electronic version has been made available under a Creative Commons BY NC ND open access license The volume explores a question that sheds light on the contested but largely cooperative nature of Arctic governance in the post Cold War period How does power matter and how has it mattered in shaping cross border cooperation and diplomacy in the Arctic The role of power in global governance cooperation has been explored in international relations and political geography literature yet largely overlooked in an Arctic context Through carefully selected case studies from Russia's role in the Arctic Council to the diplomacy of indigenous peoples organizations this book seeks to shed light on how power performances are enacted to constantly shore up Arctic cooperation in key ways The conceptually driven nature of the inquiry makes the book appropriate reading for courses in international relations and political geography while the carefully selected case studies lend themselves to courses on Arctic politics Fabricating Lureland Julia Winckler, 2021-12-06 Through the analysis of surviving archival traces this book constructs a history of the imagination and memory of the town of Peacehaven Built as a speculative development atop iconic chalk cliffs on the Sussex Coast and marketed as a garden city by the sea the estate quickly attracted adverse publicity Influential voices such as the Bloomsbury group's Virginia and Leonard Woolf architect and writer Clough Williams Ellis and the Campaign for the Protection of Rural England soon began to criticise it as a blot on the rolling pastoral downland Instead of reading and appraising Peacehaven's story in a polarized way this book breaks new ground by critically interpreting visual representations and commissioned photographs of the Estate and re-evaluating propositions from its inception which aspired to secure improved public health and home ownership in direct response to the negative impact of industrialization and WWI Focusing on the interwar period and tracing mutating agendas the book investigates contested marketing and construction narratives through Histoire Crois e methodology and its intercrossings with memory and the imagination By combining visual and creative research methods with oral history multi-layered narratives of place come into focus The study tracks the visual programme of the developer's in-house magazine Peacehaven Post alongside previously underexplored blueprints photographs postcards and promotional guidebooks and considers the garden city narrative as a form of social Utopia Garden city ideals are once again evoked in debates as a potential solution to the ongoing national housing shortage giving this research additional urgency as new large-scale redevelopment erases many of the few and fast-disappearing original landmarks The Water-Energy-Food Nexus in the Middle East and North Africa Martin Keulertz, Eckart Woertz, 2017-10-02 This book discusses key issues concerning water energy and food in the Middle East and North Africa MENA region It provides an interdisciplinary account of current developments in the most water scarce and conflict-torn region in the world Key analysts on MENA water agriculture and energy affairs have been drawn together to compile one of the first edited volumes dedicated to the crucial role of water energy and food security in the 21st century MENA region It will be of interest to decision makers analysts and students of the future of the Middle East from a broad range of disciplines including the physical and social sciences This book was previously published as a special issue of the International Journal of Water Resources Development Social Housing in the Middle East Mohammad Gharipour,Kivanc Kilinc,2019-03-01 As oil rich countries in the Middle East are increasingly associated with soaring skyscrapers and modern architecture attention is being diverted away from the pervasive struggles of social housing in those same urban settings Social Housing in the Middle East traces the history of social housing both gleaming postmodern projects and bare bones urban housing structures in an effort to provide a wider understanding of marginalized spaces and their impact on identities communities and class While architects may have envisioned utopian or futuristic experiments these buildings were often constructed with the knowledge and skill sets of local workers and the housing was in turn adapted to suit the modern needs of residents This tension between local needs and national aspirations are linked to issues of global importance including security migration and refugee resettlement The essays collected here consider how culture faith and politics influenced the solutions offered by social housing they provide an insightful look at how social housing has evolved since the 19th century and how it will need to adapt to suit the 21st
