

FIGURATIVE LANGUAGE

Figurative language is a broad category of speech that describes when words go beyond their traditional, dictionary definition and meaning. Figurative language is also one of the most commonly used literary devices. It is used in poetry and novels to help show emotion and connect the author to the reader.

Functions Of Figurative Language:

The Functions of Figurative Language in Psychotherapy Lawrence Shapiro, 1999 Cognitive Pragmatics Hans-Jörg Schmid, 2012-08-31

Speakers tend to compose their utterances in such a way that the message they want to get across is hardly ever fully encoded by the meanings of the words and the grammar they use. Instead, speakers rely on hearers adding conceptual and emotive content while interpreting the contextually appropriate meanings and intentions behind utterances. This insight, which is of course particularly relevant in all kinds of indirect figurative or humorous talk, lies at the heart of the linguistic discipline of pragmatics. If pragmatics is the study of meaning in context, then cognitive pragmatics can be broadly defined as encompassing the study of the cognitive principles and processes involved in the construal of meaning in context. While it would seem only natural that pragmatics as such should have addressed such cognitive issues, anyway, it has mainly been due to the historical rooting of this discipline in the philosophy of language that psychological aspects have not been in the pragmatic limelight to date. Being part of the 9 volume series Handbooks of Pragmatics, this volume is the first to systematically survey this terrain from a wide range of perspectives. It collects state-of-the-art contributions by leading experts from the fields of pragmatics, psycholinguistics, cognitive linguistics, clinical linguistics, and historical linguistics. The volume is divided into four parts which tackle the following questions:

Part I: The cognitive principles of pragmatic competence. What are the general cognitive principles underlying pragmatic competence, i.e. the skill to arrive at context-dependent meanings of utterances? What are the cognitive underpinnings of language users' ability to compute or infer intended meanings in the role of hearers and to give hints as to how to decode intended meanings in the role of speakers?

Part II: The psychology of pragmatics. What are the actual cognitive processes taking place during online construal of meaning in context on the basis of encoded messages? How is pragmatic competence acquired in childhood? What are the types, sources, and effects of pragmatic disorders, i.e. impairments of pragmatic competence?

Part III: The construal of non-explicit and non-literal meaning in context. What are the cognitive principles and processes involved in the construal of meanings of non-explicit and indirect utterances? How do we process figurative meanings, humour, and gestures?

Part IV: The emergence of linguistic structures from meaning in context. What are the repercussions of the repeated construal of context-dependent meanings on linguistic structures and the linguistic system? How does the system change under the influence of the construal of meanings in social situations?

at the University of Qld Also available in hardback Black Literature and Literary Theory Henry Louis Gates, Jr, 2016-08-19 The imaginative literature of African and Afro American authors writing in Western languages has long been seen as standing outside the Western literary canon In fact however black literature not only has a complex formal relation to that canon but tends to revise and reflect Western rhetorical strategies even more than it echoes black vernacular literary forms This book first published in 1984 is divided into two sections thus clarifying the nature of black literary theory on the one hand and the features of black literary practice on the other Rather than merely applying contemporary Western theory to black literature these critics instead challenge and redefine the theory in order to make fresh stimulating comments not only on black criticism and literature but also on the general state of criticism today Chinese for Specific and Professional Purposes Hongyin Tao, Howard Hao-Jan Chen, 2019-08-20 This book likely the first of its kind in the English language explores Chinese for specific and professional purposes CSP in terms of theorizing and developing practical applications for language teaching and learning While research in language for specific purposes is thriving for languages such as English there has been comparatively little such research conducted for Chinese This volume attempts to fill the gap by bringing together practitioners from a broad international scholarly community who share common interests yet diverse orientations Seventeen papers are included and address four broad thematic categories 1 academic Chinese 2 business Chinese 3 Chinese for medicine and health care and 4 Chinese for other broadly defined services and industries diplomacy tourism wine tasting etc Representing the state of the art in CSP research the book offers an indispensable guide for anyone interested in theoretical and practical issues in this area of applied Chinese language studies The Cambridge Handbook of Metaphor and Thought Raymond W. Gibbs, Jr., 2008-09-22 A comprehensive collection of essays in multidisciplinary metaphor scholarship that has been written in response to the growing interest among scholars and students from a variety of disciplines such as linguistics philosophy anthropology music and psychology These essays explore the significance of metaphor in language thought culture and artistic expression There are five main themes of the book the roots of metaphor metaphor understanding metaphor in language and culture metaphor in reasoning and feeling and metaphor in non verbal expression Contributors come from a variety of academic disciplines including psychology linguistics philosophy cognitive science literature education music and law Following Forms, Following Functions Federica Pau, Luca Vargiu, 2018-07-27 This volume of collected essays is devoted to the analysis of the relationship between form and function two concepts that have played and continue to play an important role in several disciplines from philosophical reflection to theoretical biology and from the discourses related to art image and design to cultural anthropology As such this book explores the influence of these two notions in such a broad disciplinary field in order to draw out an original global overview on the subject For this purpose it presents contributions by aestheticians art historians archaeologists ethnoanthropologists and morphologists covering a wide chronological span from Ancient Greece to the Middle Ages and from Modernism to more recent events that still need to be historicized Handbook of Communication Disorders Amalia Bar-On, Dorit Ravid, Elitzur

Dattner, 2018-04-23 The domain of Communication Disorders has grown exponentially in the last two decades and has come to encompass much more than audiology speech impediments and early language impairment The realization that most developmental and learning disorders are language based or language related has brought insights from theoretical and empirical linguistics and its clinical applications to the forefront of Communication Disorders science The current handbook takes an integrated psycholinguistic neurolinguistic and sociolinguistic perspective on Communication Disorders by targeting the interface between language and cognition as the context for understanding disrupted abilities and behaviors and providing solutions for treatment and therapy Researchers and practitioners will be able to find in this handbook state of the art information on typical and atypical development of language and communication dis abilities across the human lifespan from infancy to the aging brain covering all major clinical disorders and conditions in various social and communicative contexts such as spoken and written language and discourse literacy issues bilingualism and socio economic status The Function of Proverbs in Discourse: The Case of a Mexican Transnational Social Network Elías Domínguez Barajas, 2010-03-26 Grounded primarily in the ethnography of communication and aligned with the multidisciplinary of discourse analysis the book examines the use of proverbs in the daily life of a social network of Mexican origin transnational families in Chicago and Michoacán Mexico Various and detailed analyses of actual proverb use reveal that proverbs in this particular population function as a highly contextualized communicative strategy that serves four discrete social functions to argue to advise to establish rapport and to entertain Proposing that the social and cognitive aspects of language use must be combined for a complete understanding of how such genres of language are actually used by regular people in daily life the author shows how ordinary people use sophisticated cognitive processes to interpret the socially relevant meanings of proverbs in everyday conversation The book provides an unusual mix of contextualized discourse analysis that is ethnographic linguistic and cognitive yielding much needed insight into a segment of the Mexican origin population of the Midwestern U S a population whose increasing importance and size is often mentioned but about which precious few linguistic studies have been conducted The volume not only helps to fill this void but it is also one of the few studies that focuses on the impact of transnationalism on linguistic practices regardless of cultural group Departing from the conventional approach of ignoring the role of everyday language use in order to focus exclusively on culture economics or migrant patterns the book makes linguistic practice the central issue and thus affirms that it is language that weaves together the two distant sites of transnational communities providing a fertile area for understanding the perspectives of the transmigrants themselves

Neuropsychology of Communication Michela Balconi, 2010-09-08 In this volume the communicative and neuropsychological correlates of daily interactions are discussed The predominant account on explaining the construction of meaning by humans is the inter relational perspective that postulates an intentional convergence of meaning arising as a consequence of the active exchanges between people The neural correlates of communication were illustrated in the light of new empirical results considering the main topics of a language and language development b pragmatics and neuropragmatics of communication c neurocognition and the cognitive bases of intentions d nonverbal communication and emotion contribution to the communicative systems New methodological approaches are considered with particular attention to neuroimaging such as PET and fMRI and brain stimulation techniques as MEG and TMS as well as their application to the clinical field
