

LOVE

I believe that love is hard to find. Love is respecting and caring about someone very strongly in many different ways. Everyone in this world craves to feel what we call "love." I believe that everyone deserves the right to love regardless of age, race, gender, or sexual orientation. Lacking love can result in getting depressed; feeling isolated, and it can make life seem a lot harder. There are many different types of love such as romantic love, strictly platonic love and family love.

Romantic love is having a sexual interest towards your partner but also emotionally connecting, caring and respecting your partner. To be able to experience this love, I strongly believe that you have to be open minded and have open communication. I believe that you should become the best of friends and never hold back. In doing so, you might discover your soul mate. Many people are distracted by appearances and don't worry about what is in their partner's heart.

Strictly platonic love is the kind of love we have for friends. We really care about these people but there is no sexual interest. To have a good platonic relationship you need to be honest, trustworthy, reliable, and have a sense of humor. I have a really good friend named Becca. We have each other's backs and it is a platonic relationship.

Family love has always been important for me. Family love is the easiest to come by in my situation. I was born into love. My parents fed me, bathed me, raised me, taught me right and wrong and here I am in college. Being on the parental end of this is not easy. This love to me is more important than any other type of love out there. If it weren't for my parents putting in their hard effort of loving me and caring for me, I would not be where I'm at today nor would I be who I am today. I believe that family love should be given to every person regardless of the situation. Everyone should experience love from their family and home from the second they're born.

If you combine these three different types of love I have mentioned, I believe you can find your soul mate. Taking a romantic love relationship and adding the platonic factor, and then adding the family love (creating a family with this person) creates you and your soul mate. I believe that being able to be so open with someone that you can be best friends, lovers, and having family is rare. This type of love is hard to come by but I believe I have found it. My soul mate does everything with me. We cry, laugh, and love together. Our relationship depends on our interests and connection. I believe that trust is the key to any relationship. I trust my soul mate with my life. I believe that life is a long journey, but it's much easier when you find a soul mate. I believe that love is hard to find.
