Emotion as Feeling Towards Value Jonathan Mitchell, 2021 Much of what we take to be meaningful and significant in life is inextricably linked with our capacity to experience emotions Here Jonathan Mitchell considers emotional experiences as sui generis states to be given their own place within our mental economy and proposes an original view of emotional experiences as feelings towards values

Emotions and Values in Equity Crowdfunding Investment Choices 1 Christian Goglin, 2021-02-17 Equity crowdfunding is a new way for seed stage start ups to generate initial capital and as such raises questions around the choices made by investors within this area Understanding it is important for investor protection as investors are generally unaware of the factors that can influence their decisions However investing in equity crowdfunding places the investor in a unique decision making framework in which resources such as images videos and storytelling are all mobilized by entrepreneurs and platforms as tools of persuasion This context thus seems to favor more holistic and emotional decision making rather than a process that is rational and analytical This first volume centers on the emotional and axiological determinants of choice A transdisciplinary theoretical analysis is carried out combining different fields within the social sciences primarily finance marketing and psychology This state of the art leads to the emergence of an original theoretical framework for understanding investment choices in equity crowdfunding The Value of Emotions for Knowledge Laura Candiott, 2019-04-23 This innovative new volume analyses the role of emotions in knowledge acquisition It focuses on the field of philosophy of emotions at the exciting intersection between epistemology and philosophy of mind and cognitive science to bring us an in depth analysis of the epistemological value of emotions in reasoning With twelve chapters by leading and up and coming academics this edited collection shows that emotions do count for our epistemic enterprise Against scepticism about the possible positive role emotions play in knowledge the authors highlight the how and the why of this potential lucidly exploring the key aspects of the functionality of emotions This is explored in relation to specific kinds of knowledge such as self understanding group knowledge and wisdom specific functions played by certain emotions in these cases such as disorientation in enquiry and contempt in practical reason the affective experience of the epistemic subjects and communities Fact and Value in Emotion Louis C. Charland, Peter Zachar, 2008 There is a large amount of scientific work on emotion in psychology neuroscience biology physiology and psychiatry which assumes that it is possible to study emotions and other affective states objectively Emotion science of this sort is concerned primarily with facts and not values with description not prescription The assumption behind this vision of emotion science is that it is possible to distinguish factual from evaluative aspects of affectivity and emotion and study one without the other But what really is the basis for distinguishing fact and value in emotion and affectivity And can the distinction withstand careful scientific and philosophical scrutiny The essays in this collection all suggest that the problems behind this vision of emotion science may be more complex than is commonly supposed Ethics, Emotion, Education, and Empowerment Lisa Kretz, 2020-10-14 Universities teach courses in ethics but do they teach students how to be ethical in practice Lisa Kretz's Ethics Emotion Education and Empowerment explores the ways that philosophical ethics are currently taught and argues that dominant approaches fail to adequately support ethical action in part because emotions are all too often ignored or repressed in university classrooms In isolation abstract theoretical content fails to motivate The ability to reason through an ethical dilemma does not by itself of necessity impact ethical action Empowered action requires intentional emotional engagement Kretz argues that part of the reason affective pedagogy fails to get sufficient uptake is due to the operations of oppression There is a long history of the reason emotion dualism undermining recognition of the necessary and valuable epistemic roles emotions play in moral life and serving as a political tactic to undermine the experience of oppressed groups This impoverishes ethical pedagogy because it is to the detriment of their ability to teach ethics in a comprehensive way and strips the potential of supporting students to enact their own reflectively held ethical beliefs and values Using the example of the environmental crisis Kretz makes a case for supporting students as engaged activists aware of their capacity to ethically change the world
