Coast Guard, 2003 Decision Modes in Complex Task Environments Norbert Steigenberger, Thomas Lübcke, Heather Fiala, Alina Riebschläger, 2017-05-25 Despite intense research on decision making in action we still know little about when decision makers rely on deliberate vs intuitive decision making in decision situations under complexity and uncertainty Building on default interventionist dual processing theory this book studies decision making modes deliberate vs intuitive in complex task environments contingent on perceived complexity experience and decision style preference We find that relatively inexperienced decision makers respond to increases in subjective complexity with an increase in deliberation and tend to follow their decision style preference Experienced decision makers are less guided by their decision preference and respond to increases in subjective complexity only minimally This book contributes to a developing stream of research linking decision making with intra personal and environmental properties and fosters our understanding of the conditions under which decision makers rely on intuitive vs deliberate decision modes In doing so we go one step further towards a comprehensive theory of decision making in action

Optimal Search for Moving Targets Lawrence D. Stone, Johannes O. Royset, Alan R. Washburn, 2016-04-06 This book begins with a review of basic results in optimal search for a stationary target. It then develops the theory of optimal search for a moving target providing algorithms for computing optimal plans and examples of their use. Next it develops methods for computing optimal search plans involving multiple targets and multiple searchers with realistic operational constraints on search movement. These results assume that the target does not react to the search. In the final chapter there is a brief overview of mostly military problems where the target tries to avoid being found as well as rescue or rendezvous problems where the target and the searcher cooperate. Larry Stone wrote his definitive book Theory of Optimal Search in 1975 dealing almost exclusively with the stationary target search problem. Since then the theory has advanced to encompass search for targets that move even as the search proceeds and computers have developed sufficient capability to employ the improved theory. In this book Stone joins Royset and Washburn to document and explain this expanded theory of search. The problem of how to search for moving targets arises every day in military rescue, law enforcement and border patrol operations.

Cooperation and Engagement in the Asia-Pacific Region Myron H. Nordquist, John Norton Moore, Ronán Long, 2019-11-11 Cooperation and Engagement in the Asia Pacific Region brings together contributions from leading experts around the world in the law of the sea. The volume addresses topics such as regional cooperation, protection and preservation of the marine environment, freedom of navigation, sustainable fisheries and future cooperation within the important Asia Pacific region. This book provides valuable insight into a region that encompasses many important maritime regions and harbors promising opportunities for maritime cooperation and engagement.

Geoinformatics for Marine and Coastal Management Darius Bartlett, Louis Celliers, 2016-12-19 Geoinformatics for Marine and Coastal Management provides a timely and valuable assessment of the current state of the art geoinformatics tools and methods for the management of marine systems. This book focuses on the cutting edge coverage of a wide spectrum of activities and topics such as GIS based application of drainage basin analysis, contribution of ontology to marine management, geoinformatics in relation to fisheries management, hydrography, indigenous knowledge systems and marine law enforcement. The authors present a comprehensive overview of the field of Geoinformatic Applications in Marine Management covering key issues and debates with specific case studies illustrating real world applications of the GIS technology. This box of tools serves as a long term resource for coastal zone managers, professionals, practitioners and students alike on the management of oceans and the coastal fringe, promoting the approach of allowing sustainable and integrated use of oceans to maximize opportunities while keeping risks and hazards to a minimum.
