Orthodox Christian Material Culture Timothy Carroll, 2018-05-15 Although much has been written on the making of art objects as a means of engaging in creative productions of the self most famously Alfred Gell's work there has been very little written on Orthodox Christianity and its use of material within religious self formation Eastern Orthodox Christianity is renowned for its artistry and the aesthetics of its worship being an integral part of devout practice Yet this is an area with little ethnographic exploration available and even scarcer ethnographic attention given to the material culture of Eastern Christianity outside the traditional homelands of the greater Levant and Eastern Europe Drawing from and building upon Gell's work Carroll explores the uses and purposes of material culture in Eastern Orthodox Christian worship Drawing on three years of ethnographic fieldwork in a small Antiochian Orthodox parish in London Carroll focusses on a study of ecclesiastical fabric but places this within the wider context of Orthodox material ecology in Britain This ethnographic exploration leads to discussion of the role of materials in the construction of religious identity material understandings of religion and pathways of pilgrimatic engagement and religious movement across Europe In a religious tradition characterised by repetition and continuity but also as sensuously tactile this book argues that material objects are necessary for the continual production of Orthodox Christians as art like subjects It is an important contribution to the corpus of literature on the anthropology of material culture and art and the anthropology of religion

McBrien, 2017-06-08 From Belonging to Belief presents a nuanced ethnographic study of Islam and secularism in post Soviet Central Asia as seen from the small town of Bazaar Korgon in southern Kyrgyzstan Opening with the juxtaposition of a statue of Lenin and a mosque in the town square Julie McBrien proceeds to peel away the multiple layers that have shaped the return of public Islam in the region She explores belief and nonbelief varying practices of Islam discourses of extremism and the role of the state to elucidate the everyday experiences of Bazaar Korgonians McBrien shows how Islam is explored lived and debated in both conventional and novel sites a Soviet era cleric who continues to hold great influence popular television programs religious instruction at wedding parties clothing celebrations and others Through ethnographic research McBrien reveals how moving toward Islam is not a simple step but rather a deliberate and personal journey of experimentation testing and knowledge acquisition Moreover she argues that religion is not always a matter of belief sometimes it is essentially about belonging From Belonging to Belief offers an important corrective to studies that focus only on the pious turns among Muslims in Central Asia and instead shows the complex process of evolving religion in a region that has experienced both Soviet atheism and post Soviet secularism each of which has profoundly formed the way Muslims interpret and live Islam
