Ending the Troubles John M. Burney,Andrew J. Auge,2024-10-29 In June 1996 the British government convened multiparty talks trying to establish peace within Northern Ireland after thirty years of bloody civil war based on religious cultural political and economic tensions known as The Troubles The talks included political parties from the two factions central to the conflict Unionists largely Protestants committed to retaining Northern Ireland within the United Kingdom and Nationalists largely Catholics committed to the reunification of Northern Ireland with the independent Republic of Ireland Fundamental questions on national identity and democracy quickly turned these proceedings into faction bickering thus failing to produce any substantive progress The emergence of new leaders in 1997 Tony Blair prime minister of Great Britian and Bertie Ahern taoiseach in the Republic of Ireland created an opportunity for reenergizing the talks chaired by the former US senator George Mitchell with all parties making a concerted effort to reach a viable resolution among Nationalists and Unionists In the game students will represent the major parties in Northern Ireland as they reconvene at the multiparty talks in 1997 to find ways to reconcile two competing visions of Northern Irish nationalism or at least find a way for each community to tolerate one another's participation in a common constitutional arrangement. Much is at stake for another failure could lead to a full resumption of the civil war.

In addition to explaining and defining the phenomenon of hybrid teaching and learning, this volume answers: What is hybrid teaching and learning? How does it promote student learning? Why should faculty and administrators consider it? How are its components different from traditional classrooms? What are the best practices of hybrid course design? How can instructors incorporate accessibility into their hybrid courses? What models can be used to train faculty as hybrid teachers? Where is it being practiced? How can institutions best prepare students for and promote their success in hybrid courses? Who should be involved in implementing and supporting these initiatives at the institutional level? This is the 149th volume of the Jossey-Bass higher education series. It offers a comprehensive range of ideas and techniques for improving college teaching based on the experience of seasoned instructors and the latest findings of educational and psychological researchers.

The Results Fieldbook Michael J. Schmoker, 2001 What is the single most important event of the school year that affects school improvement? How do you measure school improvement? How can simple tools already at your fingertips work more effectively to improve student achievement in reading, math, and more? The Results Fieldbook answers these questions and describes in abundant practical detail how five school systems overcame obstacles and achieved exceptional results for all their students. These schools focused on the proven core concepts that Mike Schmoker described in both editions of his first ASCD book, Results: The Key to Continuous School Improvement. Supplementing the five case studies, brief vignettes written by practitioners show how core practices—teamwork, the use of achievement data, and planning for measurable goals—made an immediate and profound difference in student learning at their respective schools A close look at these school systems reveals the simplicity of school improvement efforts built around the still overlooked and most potent force in improvement collective organized teacher intelligence This book contains easily adapted processes and refinements that result from such teacher collaboration and all but guarantee measurable improvement Tables figures and appendixes illustrate effective data collection processes and at the conclusion a three part synthesis of the best of these systems provides practical steps toward implementing this radically more effective approach to school improvement starting with preservice education      Persuasive Writing Peter Frederick,2011-07-21
