Female Ritual Servitude The Trokosis In Ghana:

Female Ritual Servitude Wisdom Yaw Mensah, Francis Ebenezer Godwyll, 2010-01-07 The first mention of the word Trokosi can be traced to the work of A B Ellis in 1890 writing on the topic of Priesthood in The Ewe Speaking People of the Gold Coast As far back as the early 1900s a protest letter was submitted by a native of the Gold Coast to the Colonial Secretary of Native Affairs calling for an end to a practice that marginalized dehumanized and treated young virgins as slaves consecrated to the gods Unfortunately in 2009 the fight still continues The authors bring light to an issue greatly in need of critical scrutiny This book poignantly elucidates firsthand accounts of the voices of the Trokosi victims the geographical spread of the practice interrogates the social context in which the practice thrives traces the travailing journeys of the victims discusses the liberation efforts and rehabilitation programs examines the role of civil society in confronting the system and closes with the tensions within the discourses that support or reject the Trokosi system Ritual Servitudes and Christian Social Practices in Ghana David Stiles-Ocran, 2022-10-21 This book explores the kinds of Christian service or diaconia that develop in non institutionalized practices for supporting survivors of indigenous ritual servitude or Trokosi in Africa Drawing on empirical research from Ghana it examines the possibilities of freedom equality and dignity for liberated Trokosi and the manner in which these women s experiences constitute a repudiation of dominant patriarchal family systems With close attention to the work of indigenous parachurches which function outside of institutionalized churches in challenging the contemporary practice of ritual slavery and offering its survivors a lived space in which they need not remain hidden as they seek restoration and integration into wider society Ritual Servitudes and Christian Social Practices in Ghana will appeal to scholars of sociology theology and religion with interests in gender contemporary ministries and African religion Celebrating Life Customs around the World Victoria R.
