Educating Adolescent Newcomers in the Superdiverse Midwest Brian Seilstad, 2021-03-24 This book juxtaposes superdiversity with the reality of English centrality in the United States set against the long standing challenges regarding migration and language policy in the US most recently underlined by Donald Trump s 2016 election win and subsequent aggressive and partially successful attempts to limit migration The book explores the history policies and practices of an adolescent newcomer program in Central Ohio in the US

Midwest that seeks to provide an equitable and engaging education to its students. It addresses on the one hand positive progressive institutional responses including an embrace of translanguaging and a willingness to acknowledge and build on students' languacultural backgrounds. On the other hand, the book explores the effects of inconsistent, inefficient, and sometimes nonsensical patterns in these responses. The book analyzes student outcomes and argues that although some students are well served by the program, tensions in the program lead to uneven and even troubling behavior and results ranging from poor academic performance to dropping out. Cognitive and Affective Factors in Relation to Learning Mikaela Nyroos, Johan Korhonen, Riikka Mononen, 2022-11-10 Both domain-general (e.g., working memory, executive functions) and domain-specific (e.g., number processing, phonological processing) cognitive factors have been found to predict learning in different age groups. Likewise, research has shown that various affective factors such as different emotions (e.g., anxiety, self-concept, and interest) need to be considered when investigating individual differences in learning. However, few studies have investigated both cognitive and affective factors simultaneously in relation to learning. In particular, there is a lack of studies investigating the interplay (i.e., moderation and mediation) between cognitive and affective factors on learning. The goal of this Research Topic is to deepen our knowledge on the relations between learning and both cognitive and affective factors in different age groups. We aim to provide a broad scope of emerging areas in research on cognitive and affective factors especially related to academic learning (e.g., mathematics, reading, and other school subjects). Studies focusing simultaneously looking at the interplay of these constructs as well as longitudinally are of great interest Further we are interested in innovative study designs and recent advances in methodology in this field To promote quality education for all and equity in education cognitive and affective factors related to aspects of learning ranging from pre school to tertiary provision and inclusion of individuals with special educational needs are of interest
