trauma collective memory and cultural processes and this book provides critical readings of literary and cinematic texts on the impact of the Partition both in the Punjab and in Bengal The collection assembles studies on Anglophone writings with those on the largely unexplored vernacular works and those which have rarely found a place in discussions on the Partition It looks at representations of women s experiences of gendered violence in the Partition riots and how literary texts have filled in the lack of the human dimension in Partition histories The book goes on to highlight how the memory of the Partition is preserved and how the creative arts relation to public memory and its place within the public sphere has changed through time Collectively the essays present a nuanced understanding of how the experience of violence displacement and trauma shaped postcolonial societies and subjectivities in the Indian subcontinent Mapping the diverse topographies of Partition related uncertainties and covering both well known and lesser known texts on the Partition this book will be a useful contribution to studies of South Asian History Asian Literature and Asian Film Skippyjon Jones in Mummy Trouble
