People and Pollution Nicholas S. Hopkins, Sohair Mehanna, Salah el- Haggag, 2001 Environmental pollution is a concern of many people in Egypt and the world in general People and Pollution is a study of how Egyptians in particular understand environmental problems and what their roles are in the solutions This original study is based on extensive field research with both academic and policy relevance The uniqueness of the book comes from its focus instead of the usual approach of analyzing policy and measurements this text seeks to understand how the people themselves often the objects of policy understand their environment and their own actions An interesting finding from the research lies in the focus of Egyptian concerns Rather than the global perspective the depletion of the ozone layer protection of coral reefs and rainforests and so on that is common in the West Egyptians are mainly concerned with matters of immediate environmental degradation such as garbage sewage dirty streets and noise pollution In addition the researchers have found that people are often able to effect changes themselves through cooperation with neighbors thus bypassing the official channels of redress such as NGOs and local government officials The difference in focus of concern and courses of action may be extrapolated to many Third World or developing nations and leads to provocative questions regarding policymaking for public participation in future environmental campaigns Descriptive views from the authors eloquent and moving testimony from members of the community and clear statistical analysis of the findings make this book a highly readable text People and Pollution is a pioneering and important work that should be consulted by environmentally concerned readers students and policymakers alike

The Transnationalized Social Question Thomas Faist, 2018-11-30 The social question is back. Yet today's social question is not primarily between labour and capital as it was in the nineteenth century and throughout much of the twentieth. The contemporary social question is located at the interstices between the global South and the global North. It finds its expression in movements of people seeking a better life or fleeing unsustainable social, political, economic, and ecological conditions It is transnationalized not only because migrants and their significant others entertain ties across the borders of national states staying in touch with family and friends receiving or sending financial remittances in transnational social spaces Also of importance are cross border recruitment schemes for workers and the cross border diffusion of norms appealed to in the case of migration for example the social right to decent work as a human right Moreover migration can become an issue of inclusion or exclusion in fields important to life chances in the emigration transit or immigration states a transnationalization of national states And as in the nineteenth century political conflicts arise constituting the social question as a public concern In earlier periods class differences dominated conflicts While class has always been criss crossed by manifold heterogeneities not least of all cultural ones around ethnicity religion and language it is these latter heterogeneities that have sharpened in situations of immigration and emigration over the past decades Casting a wide net in terms of conceptual and empirical scope this book tackles both the social structure and the politics of social inequalities It sets a comprehensive agenda for research which also includes the public role of social scientists in dealing with the transnationalized social question

The Postwar Origins of the Global Environment Perrin Selcer, 2018-09-25 In the wake of the Second World War internationalists identified science as both the cause of and the solution to world crisis Unless civilization learned to control the unprecedented powers science had unleashed global catastrophe was imminent But the internationalists found hope in the idea of world government In The Postwar Origins of the Global Environment Perrin Selcer argues that the metaphor of Spaceship Earth the idea of the planet as a single interconnected system exemplifies this moment when a mix of anxiety and hope inspired visions of world community and the proliferation of international institutions Selcer tells the story of how the United Nations built the international knowledge infrastructure that made the global scale environment visible Experts affiliated with UN agencies helped make the global as in global population global climate and global economy an object in need of governance Selcer traces how UN programs such as UNESCO's Arid Lands Project the production of a soil map of the world and plans for a global environmental monitoring system fell short of utopian ambitions to cultivate world citizens but did produce an international community of experts with influential connections to national governments He shows how events and personalities cultures and ecologies bureaucracies and ideologies decolonization and the Cold War interacted to make global knowledge A major contribution to global history environmental history and the history of development this book relocates the origins of planetary environmentalism in the postwar politics of scale
