Establishing a difference is the lynchpin of marketing It can be achieved in many ways The results can be magical and powerful such as increasing with little expense the price of a little regarded fish from 0 15 a kilo to 1 00 As with many other disciplines which have great value this potency has often resulted in the discussion of marketing being prey to increasing complexity This frequently intimidates those marketing could help Often it is due to the touting of supposedly new paradigms given plausibility by conveniently invented metrics and an emphasis on the rational and conscious over the emotional and unconscious despite the latter aspects appearing to be the basis for much choice This imbalance has been highlighted by recent insights from psychology neurology and behavioural economics Rather than simply embracing these advances the focus of marketing has been on additional layers of intricacy and a weighting of emphasis towards means of communication further distancing marketing from its base This book aims to cut through to the pivotal role of differentiation illustrated by case histories and the advances in the related fields referred to particularly the work of psychologists such as Daniel Kahneman Unlike much writing on marketing it has tried to follow Einstein s advice to be as simple as possible but no simpler Foreign Trade and Tariff Proposals United States. Hidden Fields Charles Ford, 2009-02 In Hidden Fields choices are further examined with respect to various themes. Charles Ford introduces another concept about choices: there are internal choices and external ones. Now in the general sense choices are seen as external state of affairs and are associated with our bodies such as an individual act or behavior so one sees the manifested action. The internal choices stem from our various selves: choices that are made by our souls and spirits and our feeling and reasoning respectively. The individual has to think or feel before he/she acts. Charles believes ultimately both internal and external choices need to be in harmony with each other so better choices can be seen in an individual life. Charles continues to write and strives for excellence in all his poems. He invites the readers into his presence to share and exchange of thoughts and views about life experiences. All readers can be at home with him from simple to complex truths and philosophies about life. Charles wants the readers to discover something about their selves as they read his poems for as human beings we are more similar than difference in our choices. It does not matter what race, culture or sex differences we have. We are still human beings for we all think, sleep and dream. And can truly make better choices. Charles hopes all readers can clearly see this in his poems.
