Beyond PD-1: novel checkpoint receptors and ligands as targets for immunotherapy Jesse Haramati, Dallas Flies, Fabiola Solorzano Ibarra, 2025-02-24 The incredible power of the immune system to control or eliminate neoplasias has been made evident by the success of immune checkpoint inhibitors ICI While inhibitory checkpoint receptors are critical for the maintenance of hemostasis under physiological conditions dysregulation in the tumor microenvironment perturbs the role of these molecules with the promotion of exhausted cytotoxic cells that is cytotoxic cells that no longer are able to control tumors ICI leverages these targets to redirect cytotoxic responses and neutralize the suppressive tumor microenvironment However not all tumor types or patients respond to these therapies Great interest continues to be focussed on first generation ICI therapy PD 1 PD L1 and CTLA 4 but the potential for other targets and ligands remains vast Cambridge Checkpoint Science Coursebook 9 Mary Jones, Diane Fellowes-Freeman, David Sang, 2013-03-14 Written by well respected authors the Cambridge Checkpoint Science suite provides a comprehensive structured resource which covers the full Cambridge Secondary 1 framework and seamlessly progresses into the next stage This engaging course supports teaching of the Science framework both theoretically and practically with full coverage of the Scientific Enquiry framework integrated throughout the series This Coursebook for Stage 9 gives a thorough introduction to the concepts and offers a wealth of ideas for hands on activities to make the subject matter come to life Integrated review of topics from Stages 7 and 8 as well as full coverage of the Stage 9 content provides preparation for the Cambridge Checkpoint Science test and a solid foundation for progression into the Cambridge IGCSE Sciences Immune Checkpoint Inhibitors in Cancer Fumito Ito, Marc Ernstoff, 2018-09-03 Get a quick expert overview of the latest clinical information and guidelines for cancer checkpoint inhibitors and their implications for specific types of cancers This practical title by Drs Fumito Ito and Marc Ernstoff synthesizes the most up to date research and clinical guidance available on immune checkpoint inhibitors and presents this information in a compact easy to digest resource It s an ideal concise reference for trainee and practicing medical oncologists as well as those in research Discusses the current understanding of how to best harness the immune system against different types of cancer at various stages Helps you translate current research and literature into practical information for daily practice Presents information logically organized by disease site Covers tumor immunology and biology toxicities associated with immune checkpoint inhibitors and future outlooks Consolidates today s available information on this timely topic into one convenient resource Monoclonal Antibodies and Immune Checkpoint Inhibitors in the treatment of Cancer Prakash Radhakrishnan, Cory L. Brooks, Murali M. Yallapu, 2025-01-13 Cancer is a complex disease that can evade the immune system s natural defenses However recent advancements in immunotherapy have revolutionized cancer treatment by using the body s own immune system to fight cancer Monoclonal antibodies mAbs and immune checkpoint inhibitors are two types of immunotherapy that have shown promise in treating various types of cancer

Monoclonal antibodies are laboratory produced antibodies that are designed to recognize and target specific proteins on the surface of cancer cells These antibodies can be used alone or in combination with other therapies such as chemotherapy or radiation Monoclonal antibodies work by binding to cancer cells and blocking their ability to grow and divide or by marking them for destruction by the immune system For example trastuzumab Herceptin is a monoclonal antibody that targets HER2 positive breast cancer cells and can be used in combination with chemotherapy to improve survival rates

Regulation of Cancer Immune Checkpoints Jie Xu,2020-03-17 This book systematically reviews the most important findings on cancer immune checkpoints sharing essential insights into this rapidly evolving yet largely unexplored research topic The past decade has seen major advances in cancer immune checkpoint therapy which has demonstrated impressive clinical benefits The family of checkpoints for mediating cancer immune evasion now includes CTLA 4 PD 1 PD L1 CD27 CD70 FGL 1 LAG 3 Siglec 15 VISTA PD 1L VSIG3 CD47 SIRPA APOE LILRB4 TIGIT and many others Despite these strides most patients do not show lasting remission and some cancers have been completely resistant to the therapy The potentially lethal adverse effects of checkpoint blockade represent another major challenge the mechanisms of which remain poorly understood Compared to the cancer signaling pathways such as p53 and Ras mechanistic studies on immune checkpoint pathways are still in their infancy To improve the responses to checkpoint blockade therapy and limit the adverse effects it is essential to understand the molecular regulation of checkpoint molecules in both malignant and healthy cells tissues This book begins with an introduction to immune checkpoint therapy and its challenges and subsequently describes the regulation of checkpoints at different levels In closing it discusses recent therapeutic developments based on mechanistic findings and outlines goals for future translational studies The book offers a valuable resource for researchers in the cancer immunotherapy field helping to form a roadmap for checkpoint regulation and develop safer and more effective immunotherapies

Immune Checkpoints Regulatory Mechanisms and Immunotherapy Strategies in Gastrointestinal Tumors Simona Gurzu,Rongxin Zhang,Qing Xi,2025-10-27 Gastrointestinal cancers including esophageal stomach colon liver and pancreatic cancer account for approximately 22.5% of all cancer deaths globally. By 2040, the number of new cases of gastrointestinal cancer worldwide is expected to reach 7.5 million and the number of deaths will reach 5.6 million. Advanced systemic treatment regimens can extend disease-free survival by more than 2 years in patients with metastatic gastrointestinal cancer but have little impact on long-term overall survival. Over the years, PD-1/PD-L1 inhibitors have become first-line treatments for various cancers. However, among patients with gastrointestinal malignancies, PD-1 or PD-L1 ligand blockade is effective only in approximately 20-40% of patients. Therapeutic approaches to breaking tumor tolerance through PD-1 and PD-L1 require an understanding of the molecular regulation of immune checkpoints, including genomic alterations, transcription, transcriptional and post-translational modifications, and extracellular transport. Existing checkpoint-based immunotherapies are often ineffective and may be limited by toxicity; thus, it becomes urgent to identify novel immunotherapies and combination strategies. This Research Topic aims to collect original research and review articles on the regulatory mechanisms and immunotherapy strategies of immune checkpoints for gastrointestinal tumors and discuss the regulation of immune checkpoint inhibitors and molecular targeted therapy in the treatment of gastrointestinal tumors with the ultimate goal of improving patient outcomes. We welcome submissions of both original research and review articles, including but not limited to the following: Novel immune checkpoint inhibitors for the treatment of gastrointestinal tumors; Novel mechanisms controlling immune checkpoints in gastrointestinal tumors, including genomic alterations, transcription, post-transcriptional and post-translational modifications, and trafficking at the extracellular level; Resistance mechanisms of gastrointestinal tumors to immune checkpoint inhibitors; Immune checkpoint regulatory mechanisms that improve outcomes in patients with gastrointestinal cancers treated with immune checkpoint inhibitors. Please note: manuscripts consisting solely of bioinformatics or computational analysis of public genomic or transcriptomic databases, which are not accompanied by validation independent cohort or biological validation in vitro or in vivo, are out of scope for this section and will not be accepted as part of this Research Topic.
