Guide Lines For Hand Hygiene:

Hand Hygiene Debra Smith, 2009-01-01 Hands are one of the major sources and routes for cross contamination in the food industry. Reducing cross contamination is key in the production of microbiologically safer higher quality food. Hand hygiene policies and the facilities provided for hand hygiene in food handling environments vary greatly. It is generally accepted that as a bare minimum policies should include the washing of hands before handling food and that the facilities provided should be specifically for hand washing. However hand hygiene policies can extend far beyond this basic requirement. The hand hygiene facilities, their location and their usage may also vary greatly. Some companies even monitor hand washing activities by way of closed circuit television. This document reviews knowledge and practices relating to hand hygiene within the food and medical industries and uses this to propose best practice for hand hygiene within the food industry. WHO Guidelines on Hand Hygiene in Health Care (advanced Draft) World Alliance for Patient Safety, World Health Organization, 2006
