Poetry Harriet Monroe,1921      C.S. Lewis, Poetry, and the Great War 1914-1918 John Bremer,2012-05-31 The life and work of C S Lewis after his conversion in 1931 is well known and his reputation shows no signs of diminishing His earlier years have not been so well studied particularly between the ages of 16 and 22 when he studied privately and at Oxford served in the British army was wounded in France entered into his affair with Janie Moore and wrote and published his first book of poems To correct and augment the limited accounts of this period Lewis s life is presented with the general and specific background which makes it more meaningful particularly as it throws light on his character The romantic myth of him as a soldier poet is dispelled largely through an extensive review of the poems in Spirits in Bondage and the self centered life that produced them A valuable comparison not to the advantage of Lewis is drawn with two undoubted soldier poets Robert Graves and Siegfried Sassoon The purpose is not to disparage or belittle Lewis but to show what had to be overcome in his limited and unpleasant early moral character in order to produce the devoted Christian of later years      Georgian Poetry, 1916-1917 Sir Edward Howard Marsh,1918      Humour in British First World War Literature Emily Anderson,2023-09-11 This book explores how humorous depictions of the Great War worked to familiarise domesticate and tame the conflict While well known examples of First World War literature often emphasize enormous emotional disruption and the war s extremes other writers used humour to encourage a gentle mild amusement drawing on familiar popular genres and forms used before 1914 In humorous portrayals of the war tameness outdoes the unmanageable and the temperate exceeds the extraordinary Humour in British First World War Literature is based on little known primary material uncovered from detailed archival research as well as works that though written by celebrated authors tend not to be placed in the canon of Great War literature Each chapter examines key examples of literary texts ranging from short stories and poetry to theatre and periodicals in doing so investigating the complex representational political and social significance of the tame strand in humorous Great War literature      Georgian Poetry Sir Edward Howard Marsh,1918
