IB World Schools Yearbook 2012 ,2012      Social, Cultural and Economic Impacts of Wine in New Zealand.

Peter J. Howland,2014-04-16 New Zealand's wine came to the world's attention in the late 1980's with its production of some of the best quality sauvignon blancs. Since then the industry has grown significantly and has increasingly gained an international reputation as a producer of quality boutique wines. This volume provides an innovative multi-disciplinary and critical review of wine production and consumption focusing specifically on the fascinating wine industry of New Zealand. It considers the history, production, aesthetics, consumption, and role of place identity from multi-disciplinary perspectives to offer insight into the impacts of wine production and consumption. By linking the study of wine to broadly constructed social, cultural, historical, and transnational processes, the book contributes to contemporary debates on the life of commodities, social class, and place and people. Throughout, comparisons are made to other internationally recognized wine regions such as Bordeaux and Burgundy. This title furthers the understanding of the social, cultural context of wine production and consumption in this region and will be valuable reading to students, researchers, and academics interested in gastronomy, wine studies, tourism, and hospitality.

Should Wealth Be Redistributed? Steven McMullen, James R. Otteson, 2022-12-20. A central, contested issue in contemporary economics and political philosophy is whether governments should redistribute wealth. In this book, a philosopher and an economist debate this question. James Otteson argues that respect for individual persons requires that the government should usually not alter the results of free exchanges, and so redistribution is usually wrong. Steven McMullen argues that governments should substantially redistribute wealth in order to ensure that all have a minimal opportunity to participate in economic life. Over the course of the exchange, the authors investigate a number of important questions: Is redistribution properly a question of justice, and what is the appropriate standard? Has the welfare state been effective at fighting poverty? Can we expect government intervention in the economy to be helpful or counterproductive? Are our obligations to help the poor best met through government action or through private philanthropy and individual charity? The book features clear statements of each argument, responses to counterarguments in text, definitions, a glossary of key terms, and section summaries. Scholars and students alike will find it easy to follow the debate and learn the key concepts from philosophy, politics, and economics necessary to understand each position.

Key Features
Offers clear arguments written to be accessible to readers and students without a deep background in economics, philosophy, or political theory.
Fosters a deep exchange of ideas with responses from each author to the main arguments.
Provides in-text definitions and a glossary with definitions of key terms.
Includes section summaries that give an overview of the main arguments and a comprehensive bibliography for further reading.
